Boy Scout Training... Boy's Life Is Saved

By CARL GRAHAM
WEST SHOKAN

An 11 year-old New Jersey boy who nearly burned himself to death owes his life to the first aid training and quick thinking of three West Shokan Boy Scouts.

"He just blew up in flames," was the way Carl Steen, one of the three rescuers described the accident that nearly took the life of Stuart Siegel, of Woodcliff Lake, N. J.

Stuart had come on the morning of July 5 to visit his step-brother, 12-year-old Shepard Siegel, on Moonhawk Road, West Shokan. The two boys, along with Carl Steen of Watson Hollow Road and Steven Burkhart, of Burgher Road, had gone to a nearby clay bank to play.

Stuart found a jar containing gasoline and opened it, spilling some of the liquid on himself in the process. He later struck a match to light a firecracker and his clothing literally exploded. The other three boys weren't looking when Stuart struck the match, but grasped the situation as soon as they turned around. Stuart, panic-stricken, began running. His step-brother yelled at him to lie down and roll.

Special

The youth did as he was told, but unfortunately he rolled over the gasoline jar and the heat from the burning fluid caused the plastic label on the jar to stick to the skin on his back. Stuart panicked, jumped up, and began running.

"He was running like a wild man," Carl said. "I knew we had to bring him down fast."

Carl was able to overtake the frantic youth, tackled him, and threw him to the ground. All three boys then aided in beating out and smothering the flames that had spread over Stuart's entire body.

Carl got some of the burning gasoline on his arm while helping beat out the flames but was not injured.

The three Scouts took Stuart, who by then was in a state of shock and partially unconscious, to the nearby creek and sat him in the cooling water for awhile.

They then took the badly burned youth to Carl's home nearby and attempted to telephone the Siegel household but the line was busy. Undismayed, Carl placed the injured youth on the handlebars of his bicycle and pedaled him to his home about a quarter of a mile away. After more first aid treatment, Stuart was taken to the emergency room of Kingston Hospital.

He suffered first, second, and third degree burns over most of his body, with most of the heavy damage under his chin and on his left arm. He has been transferred to Pasquac Hospital in Westwood, N.J. Latest word is that he will be in the hospital for several months and will have to have skin grafts and plastic surgery to repair the damage done by the flames.

All three of the youths who rescued him are members of Boy Scout Troop 163 in West Shokan, headed by Scoutmaster

Robert Burgher. Carl is a 15-year-old Star Scout, Steven is a 14-year-old Second Class Scout, and Stuart's step-brother Shepard is a Tenderfoot.

Mrs. Robert Steen, Carl's mother, said her son has always been a level-headed, cool thinking youth. Carl helped out at the first aid lodge at Camp Tri-Mount recently.

He said his Scout training in first aid was undoubtedly a help in the emergency but that he would have known the proper procedures anyway because he has read about such situations.

"Needless to say, we're all proud of these boys who managed to do so well in an emergency," Mrs. Steen said.

"There's no doubt that Stuart would have burned to death if it had not been for the quick thinking of these boys. Not only did they put out the fire but they applied first aid, which was all a part of their Scout training."

The Steen family apparently believes in being prepared. Carl's father is a Cubmaster, Mrs. Steen is a den mother, and their daughter is a Girl Scout.

And a New Jersey youth will live because three companions knew what to do in an emergency and did it.

Rondout Creek Bridge

State to Proceed With Reconstruction

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
Despite opposition from residents in Kingston and the Town of Esopus, the State Department of Transportation will proceed with plans for the reconstruction of the present bridge across the Rondout Creek linking the two municipalities.

In fact, the state will let contracts next month estimated at some $500,000 to prepare detour routes which will be necessary when the bridge is shutdown for major repairs.

Kingston Mayor Francis R. Koenig and Esopus Supervisor George H. Freer have proposed that the rehabilitation plans for the old bridge be abandoned and that the money be put into the proposed Rondout Arterial Bridge which will enter Kingston at what was once Hasbrouck Avenue, about a quarter mile from the present bridge.

T. W. Parker, commissioner of transportation for the state, in a letter to Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, outlined the state's options and its plans for the two bridges.

"It is estimated that two years would be required to complete the plans, specifications and estimates, meet federal requirements, and complete right of way acquisitions on the new bridge," Parker wrote to Bell. "Another three years would be required for actual construction of the bridge. This makes a minimum of five years before the new bridge could be open to traffic. Current cost estimates of this project is in excess of $10 million, 50 per cent which is reimbursed by the federal government, making the state's share $5 million plus."

Parker also told Bell that when funds become available for the new bridge, "we have no intention of demolishing the present one. Once rehabilitation is completed, this bridge should be serviceable for as much as 20 years to provide a more efficient flow of traffic between the southeast quadrant of Kingston and the town of Esopus."

Speaking of the old bridge,

Parker stated that tavelers on it would be exposed to "unwarranted and grave risks" unless the bridge is rehabilitated.

The Department of Transportation estimates the overall cost of repairing the bridge at $1 million. Parker thinks there is "a strong possibility" that federal aid in the amount of 50 per cent would also be available.

"Should the rehabilitation of the bridge be undertaken while maintaining alternate one-way traffic, the cost would be increased by approximately $1,250,000," Parker wrote Bell. "It is doubtful that the federal government would consider participating in the no-detour option."

Parker also points out that "there is also the risk that in the course of removal of the deck, it would be found necessary to replace one or more of the transverse beams. It would then be necessary to close the bridge to replace these beams without having prepared the detour. This alternate would produce very serious backup of traffic during the morning and afternoon peak traffic hours."

The establishment of detour routes through New Salem, across the Eddyville Bridge and back down Route 213 into Kingston, could result in some extensive roadwork for the town of Esopus and the city at the state's expense, Bell said. "All roads will be repaved and where necessary, widened to 20 feet," Bell said.

Bell is solidly in favor of the Transportation department's proposals, in this instance. "We'll be getting half a million dollars in road construction, an a new safe bridge," he stated.

Concerning the new bridge, Bell said, "I will continue to push for it, but let's be realistic. If they started work on that bridge tomorrow it would be five years before the first car crossed it."

And, Bell indicated, with the current shortage of funds in Albany, it would be quite awhile before work is begun on the new bridge.

Heat Wave to Continue

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON
Although the burning ban has been lifted for Ulster County, the hot summer haze has not.

The summer syndrome continues with heat humidity and early evening thunderstorms the dominant factors. Kingston escaped the vengeance of Thursday's electrical storm after being the focal point of Wednesday's lightning strikes.

According to Central Hudson, the only storm imposed outages in the county Thursday night were a dozen calls in the Ellenville and Grahamsville areas. Power supplies continue at adequate levels for the area.

Elsewhere, utility customers suffered from brownouts, blackouts and all outs. Consolidated Edison in New York City was forced to cut back voltage throughout the system by five per cent for two hours late Thursday afternoon when overloads apparently caused outages of transmission lines in Dutchess County south of Fishkill. Central Hudson service in Dutchess County was unaffected by either overload or storm damage Thursday.

Albany, Troy and some Capital District suburbs were hit by a torrential rain and thunderstorm Thursday night that caused street flooding, mudslides and loss of power to several thousand residents of Colonie.

Locally heavy showers were reported in scattered areas of Ulster County. However in Kingston only a slight shower of three one hundredths of an inch was recorded in Thursday night's cloud gathering. The Kingston Board of Public Works and Central Hudson repair crews had a quiet evening as a result.

The appointment of Peter W. Barrecchia to the post of editor of The Daily Freeman has been announced by Richard L. Treat, vice-president and publisher.

Barrecchia, who has been managing editor of The Freeman since May, 1967, fills the position of editor of the newspaper, formerly held by the late Louis R. Netter.

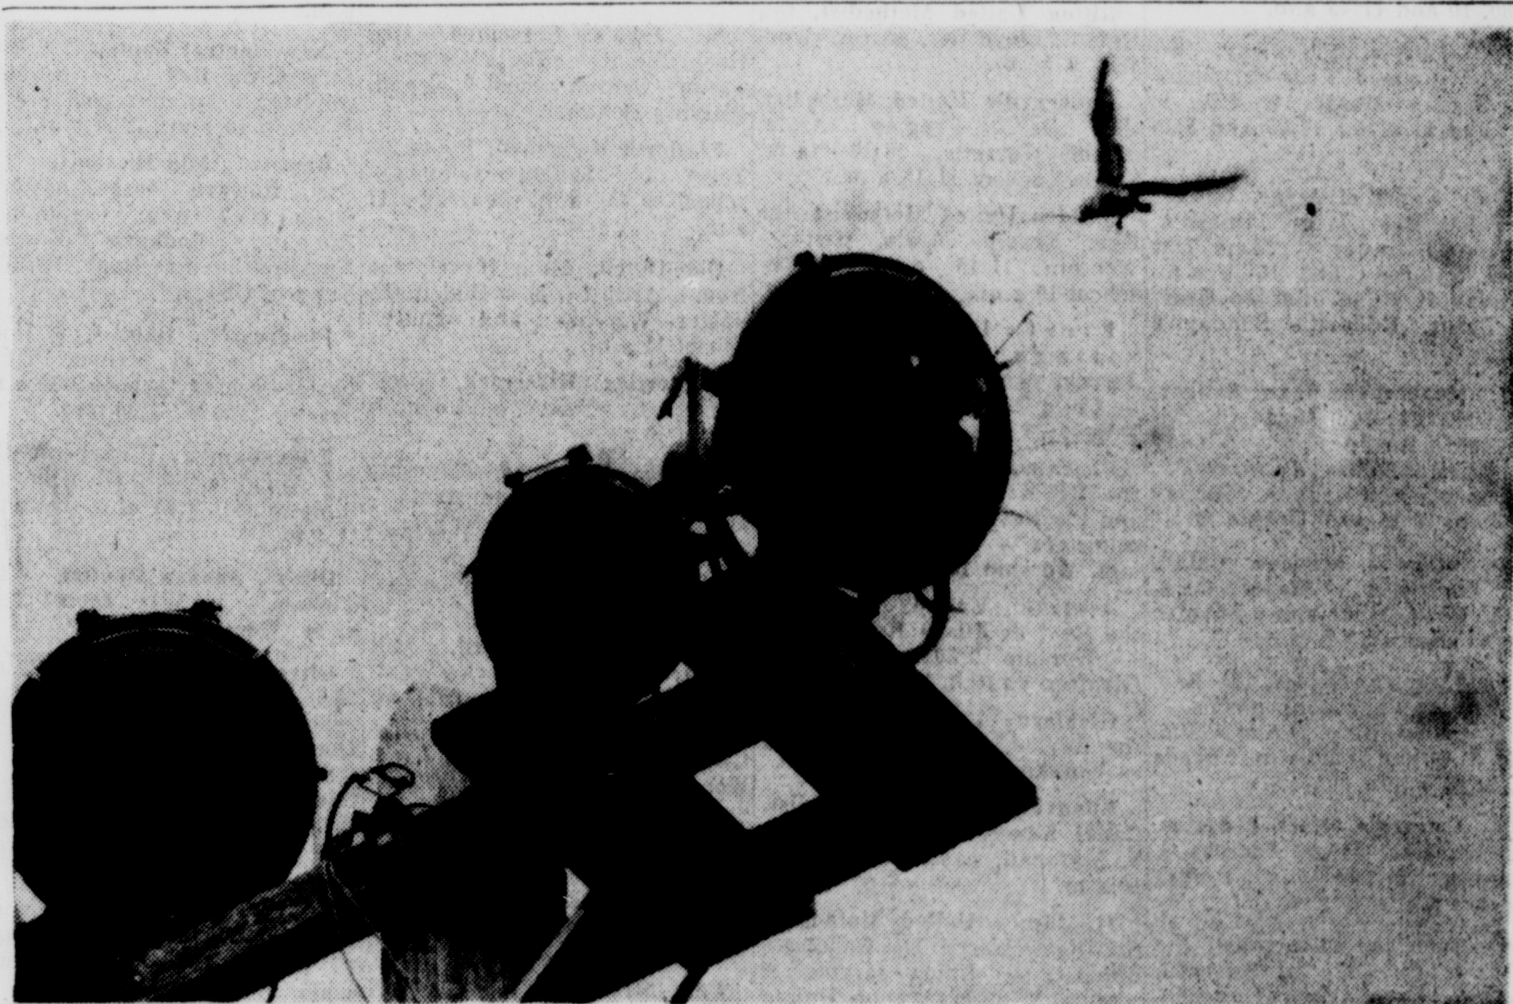

Before coming to Kingston, Barrecchia was associated with The New York Daily Mirror, Reuters News Service (London), the Lockport Union Sun and Journal and the Albany Knickerbocker News.

Barrecchia, during his distinguished newspaper career, holds several awards for his journalistic efforts.

He received the Award of Honor for distinguished news coverage and an Award of Merit for community service for the New York State Publishers Association. He is a member of the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors.

The Freeman's newly appointed editor was graduated from St. Francis College and received an M.S. degree from the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University.

Barrecchia makes his home in Stone Ridge with his wife, Joyce, and two children.

Jungle Parrots in Kingston

A monk parrot family sets up housekeeping in a broken floodlight at the Penn Central North Yard, Kingston, heralding the arrival of the newest wild bird resident in the Mid-Hudson Valley. The current issue of The Conservationist, New York State Department of Environmental Conservation publication, tells of the foothold this South American immigrant is finding in the northeast. Brought into the country as cage birds, the green and blue parrot species escaped from broken crates and adapted to the rigors of New York climate with increasing success. Their call is raucous, their diet varied and their nests bulky. A railroad observer who spotted the freight yard family noted that their coloring is that of a Penn Central caboose. Senate Votes Boost to $2.20 In Minimum Hourly Wage WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to boost the minimum hourly wage to $2.20, a move that could bring billions of paychecks to millions of workers and more labor support for Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern.

The increase from the present minimum of $1.60 was the largest single pay hike in history. It came after McGovern made a special trip from his vacation retreat in South Dakota to cast his vote.

The bill extends coverage to 7.4 million additional workers, including 1.2 million domestic servants, 1 million chain store employees and 4.9 million federal, state and local government employees.

It now goes to a House-Senate conferees to reconcile differences between the Senate version and one approved earlier by the House which provides a $2.00 minimum pay scale.

The Senate approved the measure by a vote of 65 to 27 Thursday night after defeating the Nixon administration's proposal for a $2.00 minimum by a 47 to 46 vote.

Backers of McGovern hoped his vote would improve his image with labor. The $2.20 minimum was a key goal of the budget. He may take his case to the public with some sort of special statement if Congress votes higher expenditures despite his opposition.

Nixon Plans Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon summoned his cabinet and Republican congressional leaders to the White House today to plan ways to counter election-year spending increases by the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Nixon has already indicated the outline of the GOP strategy: politically appealing spending plans will be labeled as inflationary and the Democrats will be blamed for pushing up the cost of living. The President wants Republican congressional leaders to resist any Democratic efforts to increase spending above the national debt ceiling.

Backers of McGovern hoped his vote would improve his image with labor. The $2.20 minimum was a key goal of the budget. He may take his case to the public with some sort of special statement if Congress votes higher expenditures despite his opposition.

As approved, the minimum wage would jump from $1.60 to $2.20 for most non-farm workers 60 days after enactment, and to the full $2.20 in two years.

The present minimum of $1.60 for workers on large service establishments doing farms would be raised to $2.20 in three years. The bill also repeals exemptions which now prevent many workers from getting overtime pay.

Sens. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., and Robert Taft, R-Ohio, sponsors of the administration's bill, said the Democrats' proposal was inflationary and would undermine Nixon's economic stabilization effort.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Nixon has no plans to address Congress in person or to make a televised speech to urge restraint in action on spending bills. But Ziegler indicated a written message was likely.

Democratic critics of Nixon's economic policies contend that inflation continues apace despite administration efforts to control it. They also argue that some additional spending is needed to combat unemployment which remains well above 5 per cent of the workforce.

Detroit School Board Proceeding With Plans

DETROIT (UPI)—After almost two years of battling in the courts, the Detroit Board of Education went ahead today with plans for a normal school opening in the fall—one which would not involve cross-district busing of students.

The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a temporary delay Thursday on the purchase of 295 buses to transport students from Detroit's predominantly black schools to schools in 52 predominantly white suburban districts. The appeals court scheduled a hearing on oral arguments for Aug. 24.

Detroit School Supt. Charles J. Wolfe said the court's action

"tells us to go ahead now to do our planning for fall opening in terms of regular schools."

"We have waited to get some firm direction to move in and we can't wait any longer," Wolfe said. "We'll go right ahead with regular planning. If something is changed Aug. 24 then we'll have to consider it at that time."

The appeals court, acting on the request of the state of Michigan, will review rulings by U.S. District Judge Stephen Roth which laid the groundwork for implementation of the cross-district integration plan on a limited basis this fall and on a full-scale basis in September, 1973.

Roth ruled last September that Detroit's schools were deliberately segregated. He certified his findings as final Thursday so the case could be appealed.

The appeals court said it would permit a special 11-member desegregation panel created by Roth to continue its work on the details of the integration plan so that "there will be no unnecessary delay in the ultimate steps contemplated in the orders of the District Court in the event the decision of the District Court is affirmed on appeal."

Attorneys for both sides in the case agreed that the appeal could prevent a busing plan from being implemented this fall. "But there's still a possibility of second-semester implementation next February," said Louis R. Lucas, chief attorney for the NAACP, which initiated the case nearly two years ago.

Spassky... Major Blunder and Concession

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI)—World champion Boris Spassky stared at the polished marble board and then moved his white queen one square.

Without looking up Bobby Fischer inched closer to the table in his black metal and leather swivel chair. Then he pushed forward a bishop three squares to take a pawn and offered a calculated sacrifice that was as devastating and as final as the chop of a guillotine.

Spassky, suddenly realizing at his side and then offered his hand to Fischer to indicate he conceded the game. The fans went wild. "Bobby Bobby," they chanted from the floor when the 29-year-old American challenger rose. In the cafeteria outside the auditorium chairs went spinning, plates crashed to the floor.

Fischer almost danced out of the exhibition hall to his black limousine.

Two minutes later Spassky appeared looking shattered.

With his head bowed he went straight into the new yellow Landrover Icelandic organizers had brought up to the hall during the game for a Russian to use to go salmon fishing.

Two down after two matches—the American challenger lost the first game and then forfeited the second—Fischer has evened the score to 2-1/2 points each. The sixth game in the 24-game play-off will begin Sunday.

Grandmasters were shaken over Spassky's 27th and final move. They said it almost beat the "childish blunder" which and chess boards were over-cost Fischer the opening game. Friderik Olafsson of Iceland said "there were at least three alternative moves for Spassky. It was a terrible mistake not worthy of a world champion."

Judge Rules Against Attica Visits

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP)—A federal judge said Thursday he found no reason to intervene in the administration of Attica state prison. His ruling let a ban on prison visits by lawyers and other outsiders remain in effect.

A "state of emergency" invoked Tuesday by prison officials during a nonviolent inmate protest, continued in force today. There was no indication when it would be lifted.

A lawyers group known as the Attica Defense Committee had hoped to gain entry to the maximum-security facility by obtaining a court order from Judge John O. Henderson.

But Henderson, sitting in U.S. District Court in Buffalo, denied the application for the order. "This court finds there has been no violation of the basic constitutional rights of inmates involved," he said, after reading an affidavit submitted by Prison Supt. Ernest L. Montanye.

"It would be not only unwise but improper," Henderson continued, "for this court to substitute its own judgment for that of state officials administering the prison."

Montanye, in his affidavit, maintained that permitting lawyers to visit inmates at the present time would cause "a drain on personnel with resultant damage to the security of the facility."

Henderson told Montanye he was retaining jurisdiction in the case and directed him to submit daily reports to the court on the prison situation.

The lawyers, headed by Buffalo attorney Herman Schwartz, said they needed to confer with inmates because some were being interrogated by prison authorities. Without automobiles," But it added that legal counsel, Schwartz said, not yet decided whether to appeal Henderson's ruling.

He also said he had not yet been able to find out how soon the Attica authorities would let him enter the prison.

According to fragmentary reports from correction department sources, work and meal schedules inside the prison were returning to normal. In a three-day demonstration that apparently ended Wednesday, up to 900 of the prison's 1200 inmates refused to leave their cells. A plan to lay off a prison nurse, later canceled, as well as general prison conditions, were reported to be the

IRVING TELLS ABOUT BOOK (UPI Telephoto)

Irving's 'Hoax' Will Be Published

NEW YORK (UPI)—Clifford Irving has found a firm willing to publish his account of how he carried out the Howard Hughes "autobiography" hoax. This time, he intends to tell the truth.

"When you get burned the way I've been burned, you don't do it a second time," Irving said Thursday in announcing Grove Press will publish the book.

Irving, 41, pleaded guilty to defrauding McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. out of $750,000 for the bogus book on the reclusive billionaire. He is due to begin serving a 2 1/2-year jail term Aug. 28.

"I've been told in no uncertain terms by the U.S. attorney's office that if anything in the book differs from the testimony I gave before the grand jury, I will be subject to perjury charges and could get up to five years in prison," Irving said.

"No sane man would take that risk."

He said the new 384-page book will "tell everything, what went wrong and what went right." The book was written in collaboration with his wife Edith and researcher Richard Suskind and will be entitled: "Clifford Irving—What Really Happened—His Untold Story of the Hughes Affair."

The book will be published in early September after excerpts from it appear in an unnamed magazine, Irving said.

Mrs. Irving is serving a two-month jail term, and both Irvings were fined $10,000. Suskind drew a six-month term on conspiracy charges.

In carrying out the hoax, the government charged, Irving and Suskind alternately pretended one was Hughes, and interviewed each other. Mrs. Irving has admitted cashing checks intended for Hughes.

Irving would not say how much he was being paid for the book. He still needs about $250,000 to settle with the company and pay off his fines and tax assessments.

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices on the stock market today resumed the downtrend of Thursday's trading.

Advancing and declining issues were about even on the New York Stock Exchange and price changes were mostly fractional.

Analysts' comments on the current state of the market varied from "it's oversold" to a hope that the United States move to support the dollar in foreign exchange markets would spur institutional investors into more active participation.

The technicians also were saying that inasmuch as the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial had dropped through the 920-925 level in the past week, it might continue downward, below the 900 mark.

In the news background was a Labor Department report that the rate of gain in consumer prices slowed to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.2 per cent in June, compared with 3.6 per cent in May.

Principal Named at Ellenville

ELLENVILLE — Richard Bullock was appointed principal of the Ellenville High School at a special meeting of the Board of Education Thursday night.

Bullock is currently principal at Middle Island High School in Patchogue, Long Island. He will begin his duties at Ellenville on Sept. 1.

Bullock will replace Morris Kaufman, who announced his retirement earlier this year.

The Board of Education approved Bullock's appointment by a 6-1 vote. Jack Siegel voted against his appointment, stating that more interviews should be conducted. James Murray and Eugene Houck were absent from the meeting.

Terms of Bullock's contract have not been finalized, according to Board president Richard

Sewage Problem In Rosendale

ROSENDALE — The absentee owner of a four-family house in Rosendale where raw sewage is allegedly running upon the ground has been notified to clean up the situation or have his building boarded up.

Paul Cahill, Rosendale's building inspector, said that the house, at 74 Main Street in the village, has only a 750-gallon septic tank to serve the four families living there and that it is inadequate to handle the volume of sewage.

The owner, Paul Barraco of Rhinebeck, has been notified that if the situation is not corrected by Tuesday the village will evacuate the tenants and board up the house as a health hazard, Cahill said.

Also discussed at Thursday night's village board meeting was the pollution caused by laundromats in the village's two shopping centers. Cahill said that holding tanks of the two firms had not been pumped

Saugerties Gets Special Equalization

SAUGERTIES

A special equalization rate of 15 per cent has been granted the Town of Saugerties for the 1972-73 school tax.

Town Assessor Paul Pavlovich received notification of the special rate today from William D. McKeever, director of statistical operations for the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

The 16 per cent rate is the highest in the past nine years and according to Pavlovich will result in lower taxes for residents this year. The previous equalization rate was 13 per cent.

Living Costs... Modest Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Living costs rose a relatively modest two-tenths of one per cent last month and purchasing power of the average American workers' paycheck showed the highest yearly gain on record, the government said today.

The rise in consumer prices, chipping two cents off the value of each $10 in June, was due to a sharp increase in food prices and lesser increases for used cars, homes and household services, the Labor Department said.

The June rise in living costs pushed the Consumer Price Index up to 125.0 of its 1967 base of 100. This meant it took $12.50 last month for every $10 worth of typical family purchases five years ago.

The report, by the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the rise in living costs in the past year was 2.9 per cent, the first annual rise under 3 per cent in the past five years.

The bureau also reported that average earnings of some 50 million rank-and-file workers—more than half the nation's work force—rose $2.18 per cent to $135.39 for the month. This was due to a one-cent rise in hourly pay and a half-hour increase in the length of the average work week.

The average paycheck was up $7.82 or 6.1 per cent over the past year. After deductions for the rise in living costs over the year, the gain was 3.2 per cent or about $3.90 per week in purchasing power.

"This is the largest over-the-year increase in real earnings (purchasing power) for any June since the series became available on a monthly basis in 1964," the bureau said. It added that much of the rise in workers' purchasing power was due to lower 1972 federal income tax rates.

The bureau said that, when the June rise in living costs was adjusted for expected seasonal factors, the over-all June price rise was one-tenth of one per cent, the smallest rise on that basis in nine months.

'Prodigious' Economy Expansion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U. S. economy expanded at "a prodigious rate" in the second quarter while inflation slowed to a point below President Nixon's goal for the year, the Commerce Department said today.

The department said the Gross National Product—the value of all goods and services produced—increased by $30 billion in April, May and June to reach a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $1.139 billion—or $1.139 trillion.

Prices, as measured by a complex government formula, went up at annual rate of 2.1 per cent during the quarter.

Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer said that in real growth after discounting inflation, the GNP increased at an annual rate of 8.9 per cent during the second quarter, the largest gain in real terms since the fourth quarter of 1965.

Passer said the 2.1 per cent rate of price increases in the second quarter also was the lowest since the fourth quarter of 1965, except during the freeze last year.

McGOVERN (L), O'BRIEN

(UPI TELEPHOTO)

McGovern Selects Ex-Chairman

WASHINGTON (AP) — After returning briefly to Washington to strengthen his fragile ties with labor, Democratic Presidential nominee George McGovern today headed for South Dakota to resume his vacation and plot autumn campaign strategy.

McGovern won fresh offers of support during his 26-hour stop-over in Washington and named former Democratic National Committee chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien to his campaign staff to recruit support from reluctant labor and party leaders.

The South Dakota Democrat spent most of his time Thursday on the Senate floor where his vote helped defeat by a narrow 47 to 46 margin a GOP-backed bill designed to scuttle a Democratic-supported measure to raise the minimum wage from $1.60 to $2.20 an hour, plus fringe benefits.

McGovern announced his selection of O'Brien to serve as one of his top three advisors at a news conference attended by vice presidential nominee Thomas F. Eagleton.

The senator said he had received offers of campaign help from several Senate Democratic colleagues, including John Tunney and Alan Cranston of California, Stuart Symington of Missouri, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

At the same time, McGovern said he soon expected to have the endorsements of union leaders representing 10 million of the 13.5 million membership of the AFL-CIO. The giant labor union's executive council voted Wednesday to stay neutral in the presidential election.

Eagleton, meanwhile, was expected to meet Monday with McGovern in the Black Hills near Custer, S.D., before beginning his first campaign swing next week. The trip will take him to Los Angeles, Honolulu, San Francisco and Jefferson City, Mo.

O'Brien, who stepped down as Democratic chairman after McGovern's presidential nomination last week, will assume the title of National Campaign Chairman, McGovern said.

He described O'Brien's role as one of "a foremost consultant on overall policy and strategy" with specific responsibility for directing an effort to "unify the support of key Democrats across the country."

One McGovern advisor said O'Brien's chores would include personally meeting with labor leaders, Southern Democratic governors, state party officials and Democratic Congressmen who did not support McGovern's nomination.

Lindsay... A Rebuke And Pledge

By United Press International
Sen. George S. McGovern, who has been criticized by labor, Republicans and southern Democrats, received a mild rebuke Thursday from a fellow liberal, New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

Lindsay said he felt McGovern as the Democratic presidential nominee was failing to pay sufficient attention to big city problems.

Lindsay added, however, that he would do everything possible to help the Democratic ticket win in November and said he believed there was "great possibility for the country" in the McGovern candidacy.

McGovern, a decided underdog at this stage of his bid to turn President Nixon out of office, got the news that the 1.5 million-member United Auto Workers tentatively endorsed him. The UAW executive board recommended that the union membership back the South Dakotan, taking the action only 24 hours after the AFL-CIO executive council decided to endorse neither McGovern nor Nixon.

McGovern was back in Washington to cast labor-pleasing votes on a bill to raise the minimum wage. He said he was pleased by the pledges of support from his Senate Democratic colleagues.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 21, 1972

Jack Anderson Says

Chinese-Corsican Connection

WASHINGTON — Chinese dope magnates in Bangkok, Hong Kong and Singapore have joined forces with Mafia overlords from Corsica to flood the United States and Canada with heroin.

Millions worth of the lethal powder have already been smuggled into North America in body packs strapped to Chinese ship jumpers and in attache cases of diplomats.

To stop the smuggling, alarmed American agents and Canadian mounties have also joined forces. Their undercover effort is known by the code name, "Operation Sea Wall."

The fascinating story is told in a classified report, which describes how a staggering $220 million worth of heroin piled up in secret Asian warehouses after the U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

The departure of their GI customers left the Chinese drug traffickers with a huge surplus of joy dust on their hands. The heroin had been flowing into their warehouses from the "Golden Triangle" of Thailand, Laos and Burma.

At hushed meetings in their lacquered drawing rooms and counting houses, the Chinese concluded they would have to follow their customer home and open new markets in America. Or, as the secret report puts it, they decided "to try their 'joss' (luck) in a new area."

The Chinese syndicate made contact with the Corsican Mafia, whose smuggling organization had been moving heroin from Europe to New York. A federal crackdown had closed many of their underground routes, so the Corsicans were looking for new connections.

Corsican Connection

They jetted to Asia and struck a deal with the Chinese. The secret report suggests that the Chinese-Corsican talks confirmed "the long-standing, heretofore unverifiable reports of a Chinese-Corsican connection..."

Learning of the ominous new entente, federal narcotics czar John Ingersoll took the lead in setting up "Operation Sea Wall" on April 7. He enlisted the assistance of the Central Intelligence Agency, Immigration Service and the Canadian mounties.

Their purpose: "to interdict the flow of heroin from the Far East before it reaches even more serious propositions."

Only four days later, government agents arrested seven Chinese in New York City, six of them ship jumpers. The seven sullen smugglers carried heroin worth $500,000.

This New York haul, according to secret reports, was a mere fraction of a $4.5 million shipment "which originated in Bangkok and was evidently delivered by a European diplomat assigned to Thailand. Sensitive sources have revealed that more shipments, sponsored by other groups, are on the way. Arrests are anticipated."

The Chinese seamen, most of them from non-communist Asian countries, have been slipping into Canada and the United States in increasing numbers. The smugglers sneak ashore from foreign flag ships often with as much as $100,000 to $200,000 worth of heroin strapped to their bodies.

The typical Chinese seaman, who smuggles heroin, brings one to two kilograms each trip," reports the secret document. "He can easily body pack or conceal this amount in his bags. (He) has bought the contraband in Hong Kong, paying $2,000 to $3,700 a kilogram."

The Payoff

"With the proceeds acquired for accomplishing this task, he can fade into one of the many Chinese communities in the United States." Indeed, the report adds: "In several instances, the heroin was carried to provide payments for shelter and assistance to the illegal emigre."

Hundreds of ship jumpers have paid to get private legislation pushed through Congress, permitting them to remain in the country.

In Miami, a Chinese seaman was caught with 10 kilograms — about $1 million worth — of heroin last April. It was "packed in plastic bags carrying the familiar 'Double Uoglobe' brand name, indicating it was produced in a heroin laboratory in Laos."

In addition, to Miami, Asian heroin has been smuggled into the United States through Vancouver, San Francisco and New York. The secret report also cites Seattle and Portland as "probable" operation centers.

In addition to the ship jumpers, says the documents, "Bangkok dealers have employed individuals with diplomatic passports to deliver as much as 20 kilograms of heroin at a time to the United States."

A case in point is Philippine diplomat Domingo Caniso, arrested in New York City in possession of 17 kilograms of "Double Uoglobe" heroin, along with his controller from Bangkok, Chou Hsiu-chien.

"This was Caniso's third trip to the United States. At least one previous time, he was accompanied by a known Chinese heroin dealer in Bangkok."

Footnote: The State Department has put out misleading, soft-soap statements about the rush of heroin into the United States from Asia. It was to counter this pollyanna attitude that we decide to break secrecy on "Operation Sea Wall."

The 'Chute That Hasn't Opened

Bruce Bioassat Says

Larry O'Brien's Ouster

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sen. George McGovern's image as the strong commander of his own forces is considerably dimmed by the strange uncertainty of his effort to retain Lawrence F. O'Brien as Democratic national chairman.

Though one or two well-reported accounts of that quest already have appeared, some details of the story are worth laying out in proper time sequence.

In late June, on the trail in the south, McGovern seemed to say that he was about to choose Mrs. Jean Westwood, Utah national committeewoman, to take O'Brien's place. Later the senator said he wanted O'Brien to stay.

By the time the Democrats gathered in Miami Beach, McGovern had personally urged this on O'Brien several times. The senator's pursuit became hot the morning of July 14, with the convention over and O'Brien about to step down.

After a few misses that morning, McGovern finally reached the chairman just 20 minutes before the party's National Committee was to meet. He wanted to talk. O'Brien pleaded the pressure of time and rang off to start the meeting. He was called out to take another McGovern call, and this time agreed to sit down around 12:30.

The two men lunched and talked for two hours at the new nominee's Doral Hotel suite. The first hour they were alone, and then for a time each consulted with his aides. After that the two talked again.

The key to the whole thing was the vigor with which McGovern urged O'Brien to stay on.

The senator made a large point of his wish to have Mrs. Westwood, a highly talented political figure, serve as co-chairman. He indicated he was getting considerable pressure "from the woman's side."

O'Brien scorned this setup as "ridiculous" on two counts. First, that he couldn't be effective if sharing the responsibility. Second, that the arrangement would compel a committee rules change and, once the rules were opened up, all hell could break loose.

McGovern evidently accepted this and kept urging O'Brien. The latter finally said "Yes" but asked to talk with three aides standing by — Stanley Greigg, Joseph Napolitano and Joseph Mohbat. They told him to stay on.

But when McGovern and O'Brien reconvened, the mood had changed. The senator had talked to aides Frank Mankiewicz, Gary Hart, and others. He told O'Brien the "woman problem" — the need to give a woman high recognition — was more serious than he realized.

O'Brien was stunned at McGovern's evident lack of command, and quickly angered. Aides have him saying:

"I have no problems about this, but obviously you do. I think we just ought to wrap this up."

O'Brien suggested the two go to the afternoon meeting together. They did, accompanied by Mrs. Westwood and Pierre Salinger. In moments, O'Brien was off the podium, out of a job, and walking away as McGovern eulogized him.

O'Brien's anger was deepened and the episode given new dimension when he learned that for nearly two days Mankiewicz was telling newsmen Mrs. Westwood had been chosen. O'Brien told friends:

"The press knew who the new chairman was but apparently McGovern didn't... he put the pressure on me all-out, and then kind of folded in the stretch."

This amounts to saying, obviously, that in his own camp McGovern is more captive than commander.

Passing Off Second Best

Authors bury their early mistakes in an abandoned mine shaft in Virginia City, Nevada. They hold all the old literary horrors in two hands, drop them into darkness and wait for 30 seconds to hear the splash far below.

Now and then, a naive and pompous writer will try to cash in on a success by opening an old trunk and dusting off a reject. I did it once. The successes of "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" and "The Day Christ Died" were followed by an assortment of short stories published by Simon and Schuster.

I tossed them together, and an editor selected a title: "Some of My Very Best." Those stories were my very worst. I was chastised by the reading public. The book did not sell to the number of relatives I have out of work.

It taught me a lesson. As an observer, I watched other writers fall into a similar pit. Norman Mailer began to believe the sentiments of the gushing ladies of the literary cocktail parties—that he was a Moses from Brooklyn. He wasn't. Some of his books sounded like the tortured struggle of a man with himself. His short pieces were pontifical trash.

Now we have Mario Puzo with a book called "The Godfather Papers and Other Confessions." I laid out $6.95 of my hard-earned money for this one. This is the man who wrote a book that I regard as the epic of the underworld — the only epic — "The Godfather."

Harold Conrad, who promotes World Heavyweight Championship bouts, phoned and said: "Read 'The Godfather.' It's the first authentic thing ever written about the syndicate." This was before the book hit the best-seller lists, later to become a great motion picture. I read it. I read it again.

I savored the lean phrasing, the terse sculpturing of characters; I marveled at how Puzo carried me along with ever-mounting excitement, and how the night light was not turned off until 4 a.m. It was no more anti-Italian than Sean O'Casey's mockeries are anti-Irish. For every Sicilian member of the Mafia, there are 1,000 successful Italians in America who wouldn't know a "button man" if they were properly introduced.

Puzo says that a best seller and sudden riches stun an author; rock him out of his cradle. This isn't so. Only the naive author believes his good press notices, and counts his success as long-overdue recognition. Most serious writers worry about how they are going to improve on the most recent performance.

One book I wrote brought a first check from the Book-of-the-Month Club for $70,000. I sat in the kitchen counting the zeroes. Flynn the butcher was owed $300; I was two mortgage payments in arrears. My wife murmured: "Don't you think we ought to pay the Book-of-the-Month Club the $9.40 we owe them?"

Puzo is said to have earned close to a million on "The Godfather." True or not, as a serious word carpenter, he should have known better than to toss an assortment of gripes, tips on how to gamble, and reprints of his old book reviews at us. Men with talent should be restrained from suicide.

He was shooting himself in the head when he agreed to go to Hollywood for some "front money" and $500 a week expenses. I fell into that money trap too — for Jerry Wald once, and Jack Webb another time. The difference is this: Puzo, the fat kid from Hell's Kitchen, fell in love with the Beverly Hills Hotel, tennis, the Marco Polo bar, and glamour parties.

He concedes he did little work on the script until Paramount began to pant in his ear. I went out there to work, and I worked as fast and well as I could, grabbed the money, and fled. At the last moment, Mr. Puzo worked his typewriter to a frenzy, handed in a script, and said: "This is a first draft, you know." Bad mistake. That. No producer wanted to read it.

Fortunately, and unlike many successful authors, Puzo seems to be learning discipline. Next to learning to write simply and directly, with a small elite vocabulary, this is the most important lesson an author can absorb.

"The Godfather Papers" sorrowed me. One of the best pieces of writing in it was about an American girl meeting her lover at a Paris cafe: "A green straw hat with an enormous brim was over one eye and there were orange tendrils of hair curling around the sea shells of her ears; and the sea that came and went was her voice calling out McAlmon's name. She seized him in her arms and placed lipstick kisses like little footprints on his brow."

But that was quoted from a story by Kay Boyle. Another impressive sentence was: "I never had parents until I had children."

Puzo didn't write that one either.

Burns Scores Congressman Fish on Health-Safety Law

CARMEL
John Burns, Democratic candidate for Congress in the newly created 25th Congressional District, has charged that legislation introduced by his Republican opponent would weaken the safety provisions of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970.

Burns said that his opponent, Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., had introduced legislation to suspend fines for safety hazards unless the employer fails to remove the hazards after being notified of their existence by a Labor Department inspector.

"The 1970 law is a good law and there is no reason to change it," Burns said. "If an employer creates or permits safety hazards to workers or visitors, he should be penalized. The risk of penalty encourages employees to remove safety hazards voluntarily."

Burns said the bill introduced by Fish (H.R. 15399) "makes no sense whatsoever." Burns states: "Mr. Fish proposes that workers and visitors not be protected from safety hazards until a Labor Department inspector happens to come by, discover the safety hazard, and order the employer to remove the hazard. This may never happen until an accident occurs."

Referring to a recent mailing to voters in which Fish listed ills which he had introduced in Congress, Burns stated: "It is most curious that Mr. Fish did not call his anti-job safety bill to the attention of the voters of the 25th Congressional District."

Another Gangland Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) — Detectives busy probing the murder of Mafia leader Thomas "Tommy Ryan" Eboli were working today to identify yet another apparent gangland rubout victim.

The latest victim's body was found Thursday in an open sandy area near Kennedy Airport, only a few blocks away from a funeral home where a wake was held for Eboli earlier this week.

Police said the man — described as about 60 to 65 years old, 5 feet 10, 220 pounds, well-dressed and with finely manicured fingers — apparently had been beaten, stabbed, strangled with his own necktie and then dumped at the spot off South Conduit Road near the Van Wyck Expressway.

"Pending further determination, it appears to be a gangland-style slaying," Queens Asst. Dist. Atty. Vincent J. Nicolosi said.

Law enforcement officials say efforts to locate Mafia figures for questioning about the Eboli killing have been stymied by the departure of dozens of gangsters from their haunts in the city.

"There are now more people lying low than at any time since Joey Gallo got hit," one investigator said Thursday. He added: "They don't want us to question them and they don't want to get shot by their own kind."

Eboli, reputed chieftain of the Mafia family formerly headed by Vito Genovese, was shot to death last Sunday in the Crown Heights section of Brooklyn. The slaying was the ninth gangland-style rubout since the April murder of Joseph "Crazy Joe" Gallo.

Another investigator, a high-ranking police officer, commented on the apparent hiding out by underworld figures: "They're disappearing from all over the city."

Despite speculation that some Mafia had slipped out of the country, authorities indicated it was more likely the mobsters were hiding in so-called "safe houses" — residences where they could lie low.

Investigators have been seeking to question about a dozen persons whose names emerged during interrogation of Joseph Sternfeld, the chauffeur-bodyguard who drove Eboli to Brooklyn, reportedly for a conference with other Mafia leaders on the night he was slain.

ACTING HEAD: The 1972-73 Metropolitan Opera season in New York will be presented unchanged in the best show business tradition in spite of the accidental death of its new general manager, Goeran Gentile, two months before opening night. Schuyler G. Chapin, 49, who was named acting general manager recently following a meeting of the board of directors, pledged to continue the plans laid down by Gentile, who was killed in an automobile accident in Sardinia where he was vacationing with his family. KINGSTON Committee of the Common Council has challenged the board's authority to make such changes, contending that there should be a zoning change passed by the Council. Legal word is pending from Albany on that dispute and in the meantime, all such requests to the board are being held in abeyance.

The application of Charles Schaller for a variance to use a building at 115 Green Street for the purpose of selling and storing automobiles and other mechanical parts and other commercial uses with tabled for James Plunkett, chairman of the board.

The board did not take action on two other requests, George M. and Elizabeth M. Rieker of 11 Hemlock Avenue had asked for a variance to convert a one-family house at 41-45 Tubby Street into a two-family dwelling. The Laws and Rules

Special permits were issued, renewable April 1, 1973, to the St. Clara Church of God in Christ of 150 Murray Street to operate a day care center and to Gerhon Auto Parts Corp. to use a vacant lot at 213-215 East Strand for storage and customer parking of motor vehicles ("All in running condition and meeting inspection regulations.")

Also approved was a special permit to Dwyer Brothers Inc., owners of land and Hurley Sand and Gravel Company Inc., lessee, to move a portable sand plant on Dwyer Brothers property at 801-867 Abeel Street for processing sand. The firm has done business at that site since approximately 1955.

An application from Frank Naccarato for a variance dividing an existing lot in order to erect a new residence at 320 Wilbur Avenue, was also approved.

Emergency Plans for Farmers

KINGSTON David Squire, executive director of the Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Commission, stated that his office has received authority from the state A.S.C.S. to grant requests for release acreage held under the Set Aside Program.

Squire added, however, that without prior approval of the county committee grazing or harvesting of forage on set aside acreage will place a farmer in violation of the program and regular penalties would apply.

Under the Set Aside Program acreage is removed from production by the farmer renting the A.S.C.S. the land where nothing is to be grown. Fish were 7.7 per cent higher than a year ago.

Francis R. Koenig received word recently that federal funds will be made available for construction of a gymnasium above the already existing structure. The session is open to the public.

Legion Guest Speaker Scores Flag Detractors

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — "I'm a little bit tired of the actions of those who protest by casting contempt upon our flag," Judge Dominick Gabrielli, associate justice of the Appellate Division of the State Supreme Court in Rochester, told American Legionnaires Thursday.

Speaking before some 3,500 delegates to the 1972 American Legion and Auxiliary convention, Gabrielli stressed that "disrespect for the law" is the "great danger" the United States faces today.

Introducing Gabrielli, the Department of New York Commander Robert W. Garlinger praised the justice's opinion in a case upholding the conviction of four Rochester youths accused of desecrating the American flag in photographs in a student magazine.

Gabrielli, in the majority opinion wrote that photographs of a woman clad only in flag bunting were "disturbing and a clear act of defilement."

gave the keynote address on the first day of the convention Thursday, as he has done for several years.

Wilson praised the legionnaires for their support of 1971-72 legislation dealing with assistance to disabled and hospitalized veterans and widows and children of veterans.

The convention at the Onondaga War Memorial concludes Saturday.

The statewide drum and bugle corps competition was scheduled for Saturday.

Summer Boom For Garage

KINGSTON Summer seems to have brought more business to the North Front Street Parking Garage. Receipts for June were $1,364.10, the highest since the garage's first month of operation, March of this year, when it took in $1,527.

Transient sales, where the garage was projected to make most of its money, have leveled off in the $450 a month range. In May it was $443.60. Last month it was $463.10. In April transient sales amounted to $407.60.

Monthly parking, under cover, is still the garage's biggest source of revenue. At $10 a month, 64½ spaces were sold in June for a total of $645. Open parking in the rear of the garage accounted for $256 in revenues with 32 spaces sold at 18 each.

Landmarks Discusses Reconstruction

KINGSTON Discussion of conditions controlling the reconstruction of the Lowe-Bogardus house on Converse Street highlighted the regular meeting of the Kingston Historic Landmarks Preservation Commission Thursday night.

Fred J. Johnston, chairman of the Landmarks Commission, reiterated today that the commission was fortunate to find someone who would restore the building, which is one of the oldest in Kingston, and is virtually a complete ruin.

"We had no hopes of originally restoring it, but with patience we found a donor," Johnston stated today.

How to Hurry Fruit Tree

NAPLES, N.Y. How To Hurry a Fruit Tree: Is there anything you can do to hasten fruiting or bearing of a fruit tree? Yes, and tying the branches is one of them. Many commercial growers tie down the branches of young apple trees to hasten fruiting and to produce a much better shaped tree, easier to spray and pick. Here's how they do it: drive a stake into the ground, put a slipknot on a piece of rope and tie it to the end of an upright branch. Then pull the branch down until it is more or less horizontal and tie this to a stake in the ground. Spreading the branches downward will induce earlier fruiting, and cause more abundant flower production. In amateur gardens in England and on the European continent, the tying down of branches of apple trees is practiced quite extensively. It is used to shape the tree into small space as well as to cause early bearing.

Here's the theory: behind bending the branches, it acts just as knife ringing does, restricting movement of carbohydrates from the outer portion of the limb toward the roots. The resulting accumulation of carbohydrates in the limb and slowing down of growth behind the bend is favorable to flower bud formation. Note: Although bending of branches may cause earlier bearing, it also may stunt the growth of a tree, a good thing for home gardeners since most of them want dwarf trees anyway. It's too late to effectively bend your branches now. Better wait until after growth starts next spring (or do it any time during the dormant season). The important thing is that it should be done before the end of May so that a chance is given for the carbohydrates to accumulate prior to the time of fruit-bud formation at the end of June. I mention the bending process now because many wait until summer to do the job and find it has no effect on hastening fruiting or slowing down the growth of the tree.

Root Your Own Sprouts — Reason why you cannot slip or start your own favorite shrubs such as roses, blueberries, elder, weigela, dogwood, forsythia, privet, viburnum, deutzia, willow, holly, barberry, lilac, azalea, to name a few. Many homeowners use a box of moist sand in a cold frame. Take cuttings 4 to 6 inches long and insert them about two inches deep. Make a cut with a

Toads and Turtles... Great in Battling Bugs

By Sheila and Allan Swenson In the war on insects, the battle with bugs you have lots of help all around your home grounds. Organic gardeners have been using these unique allies for years. Perhaps it's time you took a look at the assets you have in your own backyard. This year, while writing our latest book, "The Practical Book of Organic Gardening," we visited hundreds of organic gardeners. Their success in controlling insects naturally was astounding.

Turtles and toads come in handy. They aren't the world's loveliest creatures, but their value is unquestioned. Toads have enormous appetites for insects. Watch one sometimes. He seems to be resting, but a flash of that tongue and another bug disappears. Welcome them with aluminum pie plates or saucers of water in strawberry beds, under flower borders, beneath hedges. Two toads in a bed of flowers can keep the insects off your plants quite effectively. Some gardeners put a few in each part of the garden and let nature take its amazing course.

Box turtles trudge through life ever so slowly and seldom get more than a few miles from where they hatched. But they love insects, too. So when you see them risking their lives crossing a highway rescue them. They'll spend years helping keep insects in check around your garden. If you have a pond or pool, add a few frogs. Neighborhood youngsters can catch them for you for fun. Spring peepers are a welcome sound each year. These tiny frogs and bullfrogs will complete the springtime chorus. Bullfrogs offer a bonus — frog's legs for dinner.

Home Garden... Try Rhubarb

ITHACA Rhubarb is an outstanding vegetable to grow, and many gardeners ask how to get it started and when. Many of the varieties that have the bright red stalks were developed in Canada some of them are known as Ruby, Valentine, Victoria, and Canada Red. The best time to transplant rhubarb is in the early spring, but the gardener can get it started at any time during the growing season. "It's just plain hard to kill rhubarb," says Prof. Raymond Sheldrake Jr. in the Department of Vegetable Crops at the N.Y. State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences, Cornell University. If any of the Canadian varieties are not available in garden stores, the gardener can get a piece of a rhubarb clump from someone who grows it. Dig up a clump and chop off a 3-4 inch piece of the root; then plant these little "chunks." Sheldrake suggests. For a small family, only four to 6 plants will be enough. Rhubarb is a perennial, which means it grows year after year, so it should be planted where it will not be in the way of cultivating or plowing of the garden; it's often best to plant it in a corner or along a fence row.

The pieces of the rhubarb root should be planted about two to three feet apart, with four to six feet between the rows if planted in large numbers; but for the average home garden, six plants will give plenty of rhubarb. Rhubarb cannot be harvested the first year it is planted, and it should be harvested only one or two weeks during the second year. From the third year on, it can be harvested for as long as six to eight weeks.

Rhubarb requires a lot of fertilizer; spread some manure over the crop in the fall and sprinkle a couple of tablespoonfuls of complete fertilizer around each plant once or twice a year to keep it growing. It also responds well to lots of water so it is a good idea to use organic mulch to help keep the moisture in and irrigate the bed during dry periods. In harvesting rhubarb, grab the stalk and give it a pull and the fleshy stem will break away from the root; it is the stem and not the leaf that is eaten. "A small rhubarb bed can be a real boon to any home garden," Sheldrake says.

Nurserymen Lead the Fight On Pollution

The men and women of the nursery industry have assumed an aggressive leadership role in the fight against pollution and decay in our environment.

Because they have long been involved in the fight against visual pollution, members of the nursery industry are also familiar with problems of air, earth, water and sound pollution. Their campaign, "Green Survival," is a positive approach to the problems presented by all forms of pollution. The important thing about Green Survival, said Executive Vice President of the American Association of Nurserymen, Robert F. Lederer, "is that it is a positive program to help solve our environmental problems."

Outdoor Cooking Advice

ALBANY Careless fueling of cooking fires can result in painful and sometimes fatal injuries, Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State health commissioner, warned today.

"The Department's Burns Care Institute has investigated several injuries this year involving use of flammable liquids in lighting backyard cooking fires," Dr. Ingraham said. "Gasoline, alcohol, or kerosene are too volatile to be poured or sprayed or squirted onto fires," Dr. Ingraham said. Dr. Ingraham said an electrical starting device, or paper, or any of several liquid or wax like charcoal, starting preparations, if used properly, can safely kindle charcoal in a barbecue or hibachi. Dr. Ingraham suggested these safety tips for safer outdoor cooking:

- When using paper, ground the charcoal over crumpled paper and light the paper. Once the charcoal has ignited, it can be spread out for cooking.
- When using an electrical starting device, unplug it as soon as the charcoal has kindled and place it on a non-flammable surface, out of reach of children, until it has cooled. Don't use an electrical starter in the rain or when standing on wet ground.
- Apply liquid or wax

Marriage Is for Mature People Only

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: For three years I lived with a chick and we had the greatest love affair imaginable going for us. Do you know what killed it? MARRIAGE!

We're not kids. I am 33 and she is 30. So you see, Dear Abby, marriage isn't for everybody. We tried it and we didn't like it.

LEGAL IS LOUSY
DEAR LOUSY: True. Marriage is not for everybody. It's only for mature people who are prepared to accept all the legal responsibilities of marriage. You just wanted to play house.

DEAR ABBY: How does one discourage "dropper-inners"? I hate to be rude but these people are running me crazy.

You see, my husband came home from the hospital after a stroke and everybody wants to see him. I know he will make a quicker recovery here at home, but if people don't leave him alone, I'll have to take him back to the hospital. I had a coronary myself last year and all this company is wearing me out, too.

No amount of explaining

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

seems to penetrate. People call and I tell them my husband isn't up to having any company just yet, but they come anyway, ring the bell and say, "I'll stay only a minute." Then they stay for hours.

EXHAUSTED
DEAR EXHAUSTED: If they call first, say, "Sorry, absolutely no visitors yet." And if they ring your bell anyway, let the dingalings ring.

DEAR ABBY: I am curious to know what the law is regarding an unauthorized person opening another person's mail.

Our boss opens all the mail that comes to the office before passing it on to the person to whom it is addressed. Several of us are very put out about this.

to a public park, hoping to enjoy an outdoor picnic supper. We were all set to have a lovely time when a family of loud, crude characters moved in next to us and started to get friendly. They had a bunch of dirty looking children and a couple of mangy dogs sniffing everybody and everything in sight.

This unattractive carload of people soon took over the whole area. We had no privacy, and could hardly wait to pack up and head for home.

When we arrived home, we discovered several things were missing from our car. Then I remembered that a couple of the children had engaged us in conversation in order to distract us while some of the others were looting our car.

That cured us! Sorry, Abby, I am not interested in "sharing and caring," and chumming up to loudmouthed characters, thieves, juvenile delinquents, and dogs that urinate on my picnic basket.

Hospital for Alcoholics; Admissions Are Voluntary

By PATRICIA McCORMACK (UPI Family News Editor)
NEW CANAAN, Conn. (UPI) — Horatio Alger, an all-American hero, left a great ethic—work hard, give it all you have and you can get to be president.

"It just ain't so," says Charles P. Neumann, medical director of Silver Hill psychiatric hospital in New Canaan. In the area it's known as the Gold Coast hospital. Its patients, who are called "guests" include celebrities and, more and more corporate executives who are alcoholics. Some are there because they swallowed Alger's words hook, line and sinker.

What is unusual about Silver Hill: All admissions are voluntary and there are no locks. Dr. Neumann thinks voluntary admissions have a lot to do with the success Silver Hill has had in the treatment of alcoholics.

Four hundred have gone through the treatment, which includes psychotherapy. One out of two over the last seven years had managed to be free of alcoholism. That is a cure rate of 50 per cent — compared to the usual 20 or 30 per cent.

Despite the differences in wealth and position, the upper-class alcoholic generally drinks for the same reasons as his less affluent brethren. Case after case illustrates how affluence and high position are no buffer against feelings of inadequacy, dependency problems, anxiety, depression, loneliness, rage, repressed sexuality and the multiplicity of dynamics evident in the drinking of upper-class alcoholics.

"Abstinence," says Dr. John S. Tamerin, "is the beginning, not the end, of treatment." Dr. Tamerin, formerly a research associate at the National Center for Prevention and Control of Alcoholism, is Silver Hill's research director.

About 25 per cent of the guests are sick with alcoholism. Adolescents with narcotics problems and some with mental and emotional illnesses make up another bloc.

The needs are met by a staff of nine attending psychiatrists, two on the psychological staff, 41 consulting doctors, 49 nurses who do not wear uniforms and other therapists.

The Alcoholics Anonymous program is a key part of the equipment Silver Hill guests are given to cope with their problem. This provides continuity once they are discharged to their homes and jobs.

Y.P.S. Schedules Summer Classes

The Young People's Studio is offering its summer classes this year at 3 Tinker Street under the new name of Y.P.S. Studio School. Formerly owned and directed by Bruce Dorfman, it is now under the co-directorship of David Newman and Suzanne Blatter.

The Young People's Studio was started in 1967 by Bruce Dorfman at his studio in Byrdcliffe. At that time the classes were held on weekends and were only for children. During the past five years it has expanded in scope and size as well as having moved to the very heart of Woodstock, where classes are held in a large studio overlooking the village green. The program at the school now includes classes for teenagers and adults as well as continuing and expanding the children's program.

Suzanne Blatter is beginning her second year of teaching at the school. Miss Blatter is a graduate of Rhode Island School of Design, with a B.F.A. in painting and printmaking. She has studied at the Art Student's League with Walter Plate and with Bruce Dorfman as a scholarship student. During the past year, in addition to teaching at the school Miss Blatter was one of two instructors in printmaking at the Woodstock Artists' Association Graphic Workshop. At this time she is painting, as well as doing work in photography and the graphic arts.

This summer Miss Blatter will be instructing the children in projects that range from painting with watercolor and acrylics to printmaking, sculpting and crafts. Emphasis is upon the fundamentals of art through group and individual instruction. The summer schedule for classes in the four to five age group is for Tuesday morning from 9:40 to noon. The nine-12 age group meets Thursday morning from 9:40 to noon. On Saturday there will be classes for six to eight year olds in the morning and 9-12 year olds in the afternoon.

Teaching the teenage and adult classes is artist David Newman. Born in New York City, Mr. Newman now resides in Woodstock, where he maintains his studio. He studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the University of Colorado, and the Art Students League of New York, as well as the League summer school in Woodstock.

Mr. Newman's paintings, drawing, and graphic work are in many collections of art throughout the United States, and those who are familiar with his work have acknowledged the very broad base of understanding and aesthetic discipline from which it has grown. Through his range of abilities and working familiarity with many approaches, Mr. Newman is able to deal directly and easily with the specific requirements of each student on an individual basis. Mr. Newman's work was most recently seen by area residents last summer in a one man show at the Young People's Studio.

Classes for teen and adult beginners are held Wednesday evening from 7-10 p.m. and Thursday afternoon from 2-5 p.m. Registration in all children, teen and adult classes is open. For additional information contact Y.P.S. Studio School or David Newman of Woodstock.

OFFERING ADVICE to a teenage artist is David Newman, teacher of teenage and adult classes at Woodstock's Y.P.S. Studio School, 3 Tinker Street overlooking the Village Green. Registration in all children, teen and adult classes is available by contacting the studio.

LEGISLATIVE LEADERS—The Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council met at the Gov. Clinton Hotel on Thursday to discuss plans for forming a "mini governmental" region composed of the seven counties, Ulster, Dutchess, Putnam, Orange, Columbia, Greene and Rockland in order to secure state and federal programs beneficial to the counties individually and to the region as a whole. Participants included (L)

William Bartles, county executive from Dutchess; Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature and also chairman of the inter-county council; Assemblyman Edwyn E. Mason from Hobart and Herbert Hekler, Ulster County planner. Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (also in attendance) and Assemblyman Mason will investigate the legalities of the regional proposal. Hamilton Fish Sr.... 'WWII Roosevelt Trick'

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ
According to Hamilton Fish Sr., the United States was tricked into World War II by Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

The elder Fish said this Thursday, lecturing before a class taught by the State University College at New Paltz, Dr. Alexander Young in the "United States and Asia." Young said he is teaching the course as international politics. Fish, who served in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1919 to 1945, and was a senior member of both the Rules and House Foreign Affairs Committees, qualifies as an expert in that area.

His son, Hamilton Fish Jr., is now a Republican member of the House, serving the 28th Congressional District.

The talk started with Fish's recent trip to the Far East, ranged to U.S. behavior after it wins wars, and settled on how the U.S. got into WWII. something Fish wished then, and wishes now, had never happened.

According to Fish, the Japanese were "like rats in a corner," following an ultimatum from Roosevelt to militarily abandon all of their conquests in Asia. Fish believes the Japanese were forced into the attack on Pearl Harbor, and that Roosevelt knew it was coming.

The former congressman has written a book on the subject, completed last week and now in the hands of his literary agent. He expects it to be published in about six months. Its title is "FDR: The Other Side of the Coin" and is subtitled "How we were tricked into World War II."

"Less than one per cent of the American public knows the true story of how we entered into WWII," Fish said.

FDR forced the U.S. into the war against the wishes of Congress and the American public, says Fish, for a variety of reasons, including to provide employment for the Depression jobless, because of implied or direct promises of aid to the Allies, and because he was a confirmed interventionist.

Fish said he made the first speech in favor of going to war with Japan after Pearl Harbor, and he now repudiates the speech.

He said the war with Japan was the "back door" to war with Germany, which Roosevelt really wanted. Fish said matters could have been actually arranged so that Germany and Russia fought the war among themselves. "The United States and the rest of Europe could have sat back and said the hell with both of them," according to Fish.

During his recent visit to the Far East, when he visited South Korea, Japan, and Taiwan, he said he was most disturbed by the anti-American propaganda, emanating from Russia and Red China. The picture of the U.S. as a brutal aggressor nation as portrayed by the propaganda was a false one, and was refuted by U.S. history, Fish said.

He also had some harsh words for FDR's performance at the Yalta Conference, at the close of WWII. He said that though the U.S. won the war militarily "through the valor of our fighting men", America was "sold out and betrayed by a sick and dying president" who gave the victory away to Stalin.

Fish said he also opposed getting into the Vietnam War and so testified before the Senate 15 years ago. And according to Fish, if the U.S. had declared war when it first went into Indochina, "the war would have been over nine years ago."

He said he did support the war once the U.S. got into it, because it was "in defense of freedom." He praised President Nixon's handling of the war, and his troop withdrawals.

Before he began his talk, Fish said he didn't expect everyone in the audience to agree with everything he said, and not everyone did. However, the 83-year-old former congressman's lucid memory, has apparently total recall of names and dates, and his strong speech seemed to impress.

After the lecture, about a half-dozen members of the audience stayed to get his autograph.

Senior Apartment Complex Planned for Town of Ulster

TOWN OF ULSTER
A 125-unit garden apartment development for low and moderate income senior citizens has been proposed for a site adjacent to Chambers School on Lawrenceville Street in the Town of Ulster. The Urban Development Corporation, which will subsidize construction and operation of the development, will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on August 14 at the

M. Clifford Miller School in Lake Katrine. Carmine Sabino, Ulster supervisor, said the project would provide badly needed low income housing for senior citizens in an area near shopping centers and other community services. He said the town would have no trouble providing water and sewage service as both are installed near the 15-acre site.

The Ulster Senior Citizens' have been seeking housing for elderly persons since 1969. A previous attempt to construct a project on Neighborhood Road fell through when the Division of Housing and Community Renewal reportedly told local officials that there was not enough interest in the project among the senior citizens.

Russell Brott, head of the five-member Community Advisory Committee that is working closely with town and UDC officials on the new project, denied this, saying that a survey had disclosed that more than 200 persons were interested in becoming tenants.

Mrs. Scheffel confirmed this statement. "We have people who are ready to move in right now," she said. Sabino also accused the Division of Housing of "dragging its feet" on the previous project and expressed confidence that the current project would be completed on schedule.

Daniel Keane of the UDA Mid-Hudson Area office in Kingston outlined plans for the development. UDC would bear 95 per cent of the cost with the other 5 per cent being borne by the elderly persons. The Raddock Corporation of Long Island, who also would act as landlord when the buildings are completed, UDC would receive two subsidies which would be used to keep rentals within the means of low and moderate income families. One is an FHA mortgage costs to one per cent, the other a rental subsidy to aid low income families in meeting rent payments.

Moderate income families would be limited to individuals making not more than $6,320 and couples making not more than $7,020 annually. Low income families eligible for the rent subsidy, would be limited to $4,680 and $5,200 respectively. Keane said the town now realizes $2,200 annually in taxes from the property, owned by a combine of New York City businessmen. Tax receipts would go to $18,600 annually when the project is completed he said.

Construction is tentatively set to begin in September, with completion some time next spring. Several buildings now on the property will be torn down. Keane invited all senior citizens, residents of nearby areas, and other interested persons to attend the Aug. 14 public hearing. UDA, town, and senior citizen officials will be present, along with the architects, Feldman and Sanzari of White Plains, to answer questions about and seek suggestions for the development.

OTB Speakers... Views Differ

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Delegates to the eastern conference of the Council of State Governments were told by different speakers that off-track betting is a waste of money, a gold mine, a threat to the racing industry and a spur to on-track attendance.

The conflicting views were presented Thursday by a panel that included as members Howard Samuels, head of New York City's Off-Track Betting Corporation; S. Harvey Fosner, executive vice president and counsel to Roosevelt Raceway, and John J. Krumpe, a vice-president of New York Racing Association Inc.

"We must keep the racing interests healthy but we don't have to make them rich," said Samuels, who described racing operators as "special interest" groups with exclusive franchises. He called on the racing operators to conduct joint marketing arrangements with the New York City operation to increase interest in horse racing. Samuels said off-track betting has produced $15 million for the city and state so far and promises to produce another $50 million next year.

Attendance at tracks has been static over the last few years and more interest must be created, he said.

Fosner and Krumpe looked at off-track betting another way. "It's destructive to the racing industry and the breeding industry and threatens to cut into pari-mutuel taxes paid from bets at the tracks," said Fosner.

"The purposes of the OTB legislation will never be realized," said Krumpe. "It is useless, senseless and deleterious legislation."

They also disagreed over the merits of the state decision that allowed the city of Schenectady, with restrictions, to set up the first off-track betting operation in upstate New York.

"I worry about whether Schenectady can make money," said Samuels, who was angered by the fact that Schenectady had to set up its own computer arrangement to handle bets, instead of hooking into the New York City operation.

Schenectady will take bets on races at Monticello Raceway. The betting windows must close at 7 p.m. on the nights that nearby Saratoga Raceway has racing and cannot open at all when Saratoga has daytime racing. Samuels thought these restrictions to be unfair.

Fosner, however, said the restrictions were "reasonable and fair. You have to protect Saratoga."

The meeting, attended by 100 state lawmakers from the New England states, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, ended after the Thursday session. Sen. John Marchi, R-Staten Island was elected president of the group for the coming year.

Lake Algae 'Will Disappear'

TOWN OF ROSENDALE
The substance that looks like "green paint" floating on the surface of the Fourth Binnewater Lake reportedly has been positively identified as two forms of algae.

Harold Pinckney, public health sanitarian for the Ulster County Health Department, told The Freeman today that what looked like paint is actually anabaeana and synedra algae.

"The condition will disappear later in the season," Pinckney said.

The condition is due to late stratification of the pond, Pinckney explained, adding, "Nothing strange has happened."

Pinckney went on to say that the condition is not abnormal for many ponds, and is only out of the ordinary for the Binnewater Lake.

Dutchess Town Justice Set for Family Court

POUGHKEEPSIE Family Court judge, effective immediately, by Governor Rockefeller.

LaGrange town justice George G. Bernhard has been appointed as Dutchess County's second

The need for this position was recognized by the County Board of Representatives, which petitioned the state legislature for another judge to help in the massive caseload. Permission was granted by the legislature this spring.

Bernhard is an attorney with offices in Poughkeepsie and Pawling. The appointment is for a period to end Dec. 31, and he must seek election in November for a full ten-year term.

The county legislature has appropriated funds for the $31,000 annual salary and administrative costs.

Bernhard will join Family Court Judge John R. Heilman, who requested creation of the second judgeship. Judge Heilman expressed pleasure at the news, commenting that Family Court currently has more than 700 cases pending.

Family Court was created in Dutchess in 1962 under Judge Joseph Justice, who later became County Court Judge. Judge Raymond Aldrich next held the post, and he is also a County Court judge.

Judge Bernhard is a graduate of Manhattan College and New York Law School where he graduated cum laude and first in his class. He was admitted to the New York Bar in 1959 and has been admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court. He has been a town justice since 1966.

RHINEBECK New bargaining points will shortly be available in both the Red Hook and Rhinebeck Central School District contract negotiations between faculty and board of education. According to a spokesman for the Public Employment Relations board Wednesday, the final PERB fact-finder's report for the Rhinebeck district will be available for publication Monday, July 24. District Principal Ralph Steeves told The Freeman Wednesday that he had just received a copy of that report in the mail. It is up to PERB to disseminate the information contained therein, however. The Rhinebeck Board of Education has a regular meeting scheduled for July 24 at 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria. If both bargaining factions do not reach an agreement within a designated period of time after receiving the fact-finder's report, a public hearing must be held on the matter under the Taylor Law. In Red Hook, District Principal Russell J. Keefe said this week that attorneys for both factions met Tuesday with the fact-finder and that a "preliminary" report was given to them.

PERB fact-finder for both Northern Dutchess districts is a Troy attorney, Francis Dougherty. Robert Gray is negotiating for the Red Hook board, and Al Rabinowitz for the teachers, along with members of the board and Red Hook Faculty Association. The PERB spokesman in Albany told The Freeman that the Red Hook report was not yet ready for submission. The bargaining in Red Hook last year reached a public hearing date that was called off just prior to the hearing when accord was reached.

Rehabilitation Center Component to Open

A third, and new, component of the Rehabilitation Programs Work Training Center will open in September at the Dutchess County Mental Health Center, 230 North Road, Poughkeepsie. The Center serves mentally retarded, physically and multiple handicapped children and adults in Dutchess and nearby areas of Ulster Counties. Walter R. Neidhardt, organization president, stated that the Work Training Center now has 90 handicapped young adults and adults attending on a daily basis. Of this number, 72 mentally retarded multiple handicapped adults are in a variety of service trades training, with approximately 20 of this group being followed up in their employment placements for a period of six months.

The second unit of 18 mentally retarded adults has been found to be unemployable in competitive positions. These individuals have been able to sustain themselves and work within the organization's many service trade areas and receive weekly earnings for their work in addition to the continuing training. The new group, the Occupational Day Care Unit, will initially assist ten mentally retarded/multiple handicapped adults over the age of 18. This group will be assisted daily in independent living training routines and will be exposed to simple occupational skills in order to determine if they can be moved up to the Independent Living Training Unit. Handicapped adults to be selected for this group will be taken on a first come-first served basis with the only restriction that the prospective trainee be able to care for his own personal needs.

BEATEN—A very disappointed Bobby Lee Hunter closes his eyes as referee Ed Urbeo raises the hand of Tim Dement of Bossier City, La., in victory. Hunter, a convict from Charleston, S.C. had hopes of representing the U. S. in the flyweight division in the coming Olympics. (UPI)

Bobby Lee Loses

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Convict Bobby Lee Hunter had more to lose than any other fighter in the U.S. Olympic Boxing Trials—his temporary freedom—and the pressure of having to return to his jail cell became a true-to-life nightmare Thursday night.

"Hunter may have over-trained," said coach James "Red" Douglas after 17-year-old Tim Dement of Bossier City, La., pounded out a three-round decision in the flyweight bout.

"Hunter was too keyed up. Nobody else here had to go back to jail if they lost."

Hunter, serving the sixth year of a 20-year sentence at Manning Correctional Institute in South Carolina for manslaughter, must return to prison unless the U. S. Olympic Boxing Committee designates him as a challenger in the trials' Aug. 5 boxoff at Bear Mountain, N.Y.

Winners in each of the 11 divisions here must defeat a challenger in the boxoff before a trip to Munich, Germany, and the Summer Olympics is assured.

Dement, a classic jab artist, bloodied the brawling Hunter's nose with a tattoo of left jabs.

Twice Hunter came within a whisker of decking Dement.

"Hunter stunned me twice," Dement said. "He can hit hard and I was trying to stay away."

Douglas admitted "Dement gave Bobby a boxing lesson. It was the best I've seen Dement fight."

Hunter, a brawler with a dynamite left, never got untracked against the frail-appearing 5-foot-10 Dement in the 112-pound bout.

The Oakland Athletics dropped a doubleheader to the Boston Red Sox Thursday night because they misjudged Doug Griffin on one occasion and overrated him on another.

Griffin, batting only .244 before the twinbill, collected seven hits in nine at bats against the A's Thursday night and was instrumental in the winning rallies in each game as the Red Sox took both contests by scores of 2-1 and 4-3.

In the first game Griffin drove in the winning run in the seventh inning with a perfectly executed squeeze bunt single that caught the A's completely by surprise. The bunt, which scored Danny Cater, came after Oakland pitcher Ken Holtzman told third baseman Sal Bando to play Griffin deep.

"John Kennedy kept yelling from the dugout trying to tell me that Bando was playing me back at third base. At first I thought he was yelling to me but he was yelling to Cater to make him aware that I might bunt. I hadn't even thought of bunting until I heard him yelling, so I just put it down on the baseline," said Griffin.

Griffin continued to trouble the A's in the 11-inning nightcap as he collected four hits, including a single in the ninth which eluded rightfielder Angel Mangual and enabled Ben Oglivie to score the tying run.

The Red Sox finally pushed across the winning run in the 11th and once again Griffin played an important part. Only this time it was a case of the A's overrating the hitting talents of the Red Sox' second baseman.

With runners on first and third and two outs the A's elected to walk Griffin intentionally and take their chances with All-Star Carl Yastrzemski. The dangerous move backfired as reliever Darold Knowles walked Yastrzemski on four pitches to force home the winning run.

"I was kinda surprised when they walked me in the last inning to pitch to Carl. That doesn't happen very often," said Griffin in a classic bit of understatement.

In other American League games, Detroit beat Texas, 5-1, Baltimore downed Kansas City, 8-5, in 10 innings and Milwaukee edged Minnesota, 2-1.

The New York Mets nipped Los Angeles, 2-1, and Atlanta beat St. Louis, 6-3, in National League action.

Bill Slayback pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13 as Detroit beat Texas to maintain its one-game lead over Baltimore in the AL East. Slayback also added two Detroit rallies with a pair of sacrifice bunts.

Pinchhitter Merv Rettenmund came through with a two-run single in the 10th to give the Orioles their victory over Kansas City. The Royals came from two runs behind to tie the score in both the eighth and ninth innings.

Joe Lahoud collected three hits, including a game winning double in the seventh, to spark Milwaukee's triumph. Rookie Gary Ryerson went the distance for the Brewers, scattering nine hits, to notch his second win in three decisions.

Willie Mays doubled home Bud Harrelson from first base in the fifth inning with the tie-breaking run as the Mets beat Pittsburgh.

Jenkins Named

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs has been named to replace ailing Gary Nolan of Cincinnati on the 1972 National League All-Star team.

League President Charles S. Feeney said Thursday Nolan has a stiff neck and shoulder and will be forced to miss his regular turn Sunday against Pittsburgh.

Both Jenkins and Nolan are right-handers.

Jenkins, making his third appearance with the All-Stars, has a 12-8 record so far this season. In 186 innings he has fanned 119, walked 37 and allowed 154 hits and has an earned run average of 2.85.

Willis Reed Arrested

NEW YORK (UPI)—Willis Reed, the team captain of the New York Knicks, was arrested Thursday night after he became involved in an argument with an off-duty patrolman, police reported.

Police said Reed pulled out of a driveway on Junction Boulevard in Rego Park, Queens, at about 8:30 p.m. and allegedly cut off a car driven by patrolman Joseph Gaurnio, assigned to the communications division.

Gaurnio walked over to the car, and identified himself as a police officer, to which Reed allegedly replied, "I'm a cop."

Reed was charged with reckless endangerment, impersonating a police officer, menacing a barman, and a motor vehicle violation. He was released on a summons pending a later court appearance.

Cerrudo Is Rebounding

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "Very Lucky. Very fortunate. Very pleased."

Courageous Ron Cerrudo, once one of golf's brightest young stars until sidelined with severe back trouble, kept repeating the three phrases after establishing the first round lead in the $150,000 American Golf Classic Thursday.

Cerrudo, knocked out of action for eight months because of a back operation in 1970, had just come within one stroke of matching the course record on the vast stretches of the demanding Firestone Country Club course.

His five-under-par 65, including a bogey on his last hole, on the 7,188-yard par-70 layout gave him a one-stroke margin over veteran Kermit Zarley and former PGA champion Ray Floyd.

They tied at 66 in the wiling, muggy heat that featured temperatures in the mid-90's with humidity to match.

Next at 68 was a quartet headed by threatening Arnold Palmer. Also at that figure were Mike Reesor, who caddied for Palmer in the 1966 U.S. Open, veteran R. H. Sikes and four rookie Martin Bohon, a one-time Las Vegas cropper.

Defending champion Jerry Heard could manage only a 74 and host pro Bobby Nichols was two over par at 72.

Lee Trevino, who won the British Open last week, Jack Nicklaus, Doug Sanders, Billy Casper, Tony Jacklin of England and Gary Player of South Africa are not competing.

"That's the first time in a year I've played like me," said the obviously delighted Palmer who hasn't won this season.

Palmer made an eagle three on the 500-yard second hole, hitting a three-wood second shot to about 10 feet.

Cerrudo, a husky 27-year-old from Napa, Calif., won the Cajun Classic in 1968, his rookie year. He was dubbed one of the brightest young players on the tour, a potential superstar when he won the 1970 Texas Open at San Antonio. That year his back trouble forced him out for eight months and he has never really recovered his previous form.

J.C. Latest to Jump

QUEBEC CITY (AP) — J.C. Tremblay, always an elusive defenseman, has stuckhandled his way out of the National Hockey League and created a second vacancy in the line-up that will represent Canada against the Russians in September.

The 33-year-old veteran of 12 seasons with the Montreal Canadiens appeared at a news conference here Thursday night and was unveiled as the latest recruit of the World Hockey Association. It was announced that he had signed a five-year contract with the Quebec Nordiques.

Like Bobby Hull, who joined the WHA earlier as player-coach of the Winnipeg Jets, Tremblay had been one of the 35 players invited to join Team Canada for the eight-game Russian series. But neither will be able to produce the signed NHL contract required to get him into the team's Toronto training camp Aug. 13.

In Moscow a few hours earlier, an agreement between Russian hockey officials and Team Canada representatives provided the Canadians with a pretty fair replacement for their missing defenseman.

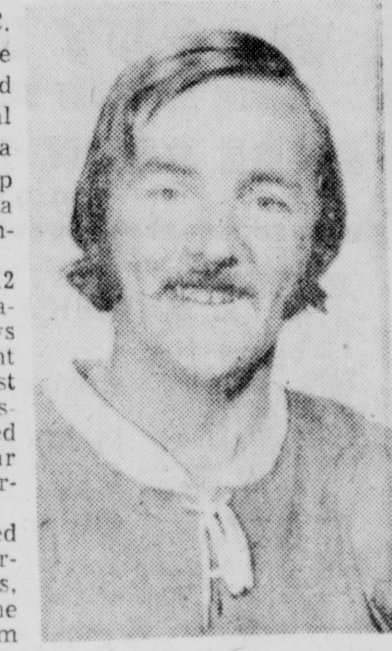

The Russians, who had insisted that only 30 players could make the trip to the Soviet Union, agreed to a 31st, provided that Bobby Orr is the extra man. The Boston Bruins' superstar is likely to miss the four earlier games in Canada while he recovers from knee surgery.

In making the Moscow announcement, Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, director of the NHL Players' Association and Orr's legal adviser, promised that Bobby will get into the series "even if he has to play on one leg."

Goyette to Coach
NEW YORK (AP) — After a five-month search, General Manager Bill Torrey of the New York Islanders has come up with a coach for the fledgling National Hockey League club.

He is Phil Goyette, a long-time NHL center for the New York Rangers, Montreal Canadiens, St. Louis Blues and Buffalo Sabres.

Torrey, reportedly turned down by several candidates including ex-NHL coaches Harry Sinden and Al MacNeil and

Don Allen-Charlie Murphy Tied for Lead at 142

Harvey Bostic Is Only Survivor in State Golf

POUGHKEEPSIE

By STEVE KANE

The Ulster County contingent in the New York State Golf Association's Amateur Championship is down to one at the halfway mark, as Harvey Bostic came back with a strong 73 Thursday to post a 36 hole 148 total, six shots off the pace.

Jeff Berry lost his temper and his touch and skied to an 81, and Joe Bostic failed to get a birdie on 18, as both the other local entrants failed to make the 152 cutoff.

Charles Murphy Jr., the first round leader, clung to a share of the top spot with a three-over 73, but veteran Don Allen of Rochester carded the day's top round of 69 to move into a tie at 142.

With the field pared to the low 30 and ties, and anyone within 10 strokes of the leaders, 38 golfers remained to claim starting times in the final two rounds.

Loudonville's Neil Spiltany turned in a 73 to lurk one shot back, and Buffalo's Don Doctor is alone at 144.

Bostic, satisfied with his play and much more confident than on opening day, revealed he had sought help after Wednesday's performance.

"I went out and played three holes with Bill Reilly (Wiltwyck pro), and he showed me what I was doing wrong," said the elder Bostic. "He got me up front more, and it really made a difference."

But for one double-bogey, Bostic's game from tee to green was almost flawless. "I had a couple of three-putts, but I was going for birdies all the way in," he said.

Berry appeared to be in good shape after opening the tournament with a 73, but a ragged front nine put him out of contention. The Lake Mohonk ace went out in 42 and could never make it up on the back side.

Joe Bostic knew he needed a round close to par to make the cut after his nine-over result Wednesday. Playing in a twosome with Pownall's John Esterbrook, the UCCC star made the turn in even par but started to stagger near the finish.

He lost four shots and went to the 18th needing a birdie, but his drive landed under a tree and the young golfer took five to get down.

Murphy, a 25-year-old from Albany, is a veteran of seven state tournaments, and though that title has eluded him, he was once a semi-finalist and has a raft of other victories to his credit. He started well, but on nine started a bogey streak that lasted three holes before he broke it with a birdie on 12.

"I scrambled well," said Murphy, "but the difference today was in the three-footers that didn't drop."

Allen ripped off two quick birdies to begin his rush. He made the turn one under and rolled in an 18-footer on the last hole to catch Murphy. An insurance broker playing out of Rochester Country Club, Allen is a four-time winner of this tournament and has competed in the U.S. Amateur, the U.S. Open and is a two-time member of both the Walker Cup and America's Cup teams. In his 13 attempts at the U.S. title, his best finish was a third in '65.

Despite their identical scores, Murphy, who holds the Woodstock Country Club course record of 62, insisted Allen is the strong favorite.

Braves Edge Cornwall for 7th Straight Rookie Win

KINGSTON—Cornwall Missiles, 5-3, at Dietz Stadium. It was the seventh straight victory for Manager Gary Dross' squad and the sixth in a row for strong-armed Tom Gallo, who four-hit the visitors.

The Braves collected only six hits off Cornwall's Mike Kewley but broke from the barrier with four runs in the first two innings and picking up an insurance tally in the sixth. Ironically, three of the runs were the direct result of wild pitches — two by Kewley and one by Gallo, who fanned six and walked. Kewley struck out five.

The six Braves' hits went to six different players, with Gallo slamming a double and Dee White hitting a triple in his second appearance with the Braves this season. Jerry Hawkins singled home two runs in the Braves' first after Skip Lyons led off with an infield hit and Mike Patrick was safe at first on a sacrifice attempt. Gene Carpenter moved up both runners with a sacrifice to set the stage for Hawkins' shot up the middle.

The Braves picked up two quickies in the second, as Gary Short walked, White tripled to left center and scored on Kewley's wide pitch. The insurance run in the sixth was the result of Kewley's second wild pitch after Gallo led off with a double to right center, advanced to third on an infield error and scored on the wild pitch. The Braves had another run cut down at the plate.

Cornwall loaded the bases in the second on an infield hit, hit batsman and bunt on which nobody covered first. Gallo's wild pitch accounted for the first run and the second crossed on an infield out.

The visitors managed their final run in the fourth in a bad hop infield hit after a single and walk. It was that kind of ace helped his own cause by blanking the first four Missiles in the batting order. The Braves backed Gallo with two double plays and the pitch-Rich Doland, the second doubleheader, with a game at Middletown at 2 p.m. and at Newburgh at 6 p.m. Next home contest is Tuesday against the New Windsor Rockets.

From New York State Tourney

Kingston Team Is Eliminated

BEACON

On the bright side there's the fact that the trip to the 1972 New York State Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament was shorter in miles than the jaunt to Jamestown last season. On the minus side is that the stay was shorter too.

The Kingston Nationals, runners-up in 1971, were eliminated from the current event here Thursday when they committed six errors to offset the fine pitching of Walt Debrosky and lost to Auburn, 3-2.

It put Kingston's record for the tourney at 1-2 and forced the Ulster County squad to wave a final bye-bye to the Beacon Memorial Park.

As in the first game, which they won, and the second, which they lost, the Nationals took an early lead against Auburn. By the top of the third it was 2-0, but it didn't stick as the upstaters scratched out singletons in the third, fifth and sixth.

An RBI hit by Lou Eccleston in the top of the first put Kingston on the scoreboard. Jeff Cammanna's bloop double provided the losers with their second tally in the third. Then the Kingston defense broke down. In the Auburn third with runners on first and third, the winners attempted to shoot the trailer to second. The man was caught in a rundown which succeeded in diverting Kingston's attention from the runner on third. By the time he was spotted, the run had scored and the trailer had stolen second.

Auburn tied it with a bit of old-time flair. A hit, stolen base, and a bunt put men on. Another perfect bunt scored the run. The winner was set up by an infield hit. The next batter tried a sacrifice but he got better than that as the ball was misplayed, putting Auburn men on second and third. Kingston pulled the infield in, but on a grounder to second the run still came across.

The key may well have been the failure of Debrosky to produce at the plate. The MVP of last year's tourney hit two homers in Kingston's win and went hitless in the two defeats. Cammanna had two of the four Kingston safeties.

Auburn pitcher John Hundley checked Kingston on four hits, striking out three and walking three. Debrosky also yielded four hits, but he struck out seven without walking anyone.

Mrs. Gifford Morey Takes the Cup

WOODSTOCK

Mrs. Gifford Morey, a 28 handicap player, fashioned a 36-hole net score of 72-70-142 to win the 1972 Women's President's Cup competition at Woodstock Country Club.

Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy put together a pair of 72s to claim the runnerup spot. Mrs. John T. Sullivan placed third with 73-72-145.

Mrs. Jospeh Forno, 79-72-151; Fitzsimmons 72; and four teams at net 73: Fred Allen-Mrs. Gifford Morey; Thomas Dendy-Mrs. Alex Sharpe, Jr.; Alvin Moscovitz-Mrs. Thomas H. Dendy and George Alexander-Mrs. Fred Allen.

Mrs. A. J. (Wiggie) DeLisio carded 75-72-148 to finish one stroke ahead of Mrs. Charles Lawson, who netted 69-79-148. The net 69 round was the second lowest in the tournament for the 17 players.

Other low shooters included Mrs. Harry Kennedy, 75-75-150; George Kittner-Mrs. Joseph Low groos honors went to Mrs. DeLisio with 84-81-165. Mrs. Sullivan was runnerup at 86-85-171.

Karen O'Reilly Hurls O-Hitter

SAUGERTIES

Karen O'Reilly pitched a no-hitter in her first start of the season as the Love Bugs crushed the Odd 19, 22-0, in the Saugerties Lassie Softball League.

Rosie's Raiders beat the Pussy cats, 13-9, and Meiswinkel's stopped the rickets, 5-0, in other games.

Mary Ellen Miller and Tracy Demarest each rapped three hits to back O'Reilly's chucking for the Love Bugs. Tracy and Linda Scott knocked in three runs apiece.

Trudy Carey and Judy Reese each laced a single and a pair of doubles in Rosie's Raiders' victory. Kathy Anderson had a single and two doubles in defeat.

A first-inning single cost Donna Meyer her second no-hitter of the season, so she had to settle for a one-hit win for Meiswinkel's over the Crickets. Myer helped her own cause with two hits and two runs batted in.

Red Hook Swimmers Win

RED HOOK IM: Lisa triumphed in the 100 freestyle, breaststroke, and IM; and Dave took the 100 freestyle, backstroke, and IM.

Red Hook was 1-2-3 in eight events for 72 points and won seven of the nine relays.

Ford Motor Company Asks for Price Increase

DETROIT (UPI)—Citing the cost of government required safety and antipollution equipment, Ford Motor Co. Thursday asked the Federal Price Commission for permission to increase prices an average of $92 on its 1973 model cars.

Similar requests were made earlier by General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp.

Ford said its increase was needed to recover costs of safety and emission control equipment required for 1973 cars and to meet government safety and health standards in its plants.

"The request includes no provision for profit for Ford or its dealers," said M.S. McLaughlin, vice president in charge of sales for Ford.

Chrysler lowered its price hike request earlier this month from an average of $180 per car to $110 in a move to maintain a competitive pricing commission.

Chrysler said it was withdrawing that part of its request to the price commission which would have covered the increased costs of labor and materials—an average of $70.

Ford's request did not cover material, wages or other economic costs increases and the company indicated it anticipated no price increases for economic recovery for the rest of the year.

General Motors asked permission July 7 to grant an average $90 hike—$85 to cover the government required equipment and $5 for optional equipment which will become standard.

G.M., which sells more than half the cars sold in the United States, said it would forego any additional increase to offset higher labor and material costs until at least the beginning of 1973.

American Motors has asked for an average $150 hike.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, July 22

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A complicated day and one when most everyone wants to state his or her views to others irrespective of whether they please or annoy, so certain tact is necessary where controversial subjects are concerned, or those that could hurt the feeling of others. Stop, look and think twice before making snide, sarcastic comments.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are anxious to get out to new places and people, but you have promises to keep to others first, so do just that. Not a good day to make any radical changes. Study the matter well first.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Study liabilities and assets well now that you have the time and know what to do in the future instead of arguing with those at home. Mate may be in a grumpy mood. Refuse to get angry.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Situations arise that make you understand the motives others have, which has not been possible before. Civic noise could get on your nerves if you permit. Take the matter philosophically.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have many duties to perform now, so schedule your hours wisely, or you could really get confused. Plan to take exercise that add to vigor. Avoid that associate who is in the mood for a fight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you want to have a good time, do not insist on others accompanying you if they are busy, or you lose a good friendship. Try some new system with that hobby and get good results. Don't go off on any tangents.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concentrating on whatever has to be done at home keeps you out of trouble now and improves conditions greatly. Entertaining is best done tomorrow. Study new outlets that can help you get ahead faster.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

You can get away from it all now for awhile, but make sure you do not add to present anxieties and debts or you make things worse for yourself. Much care in motion of all kind is important. Think.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You think you can buy your way into anything, or out of it today, but you had better save your money. That plan you have for adding to income needs more work on it. Study it well in p.m.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to force others to do the things you want them to do, but this would only alienate them and could lead to severance of connections with one vital to your welfare. Show kindness and courtesy to all.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have anxieties to get rid of, but do this quietly instead of attracting attention to yourself. Plan some time helping others and you lessen your own worries. Do not blame others for what you yourself do wrong.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You like people almost more than any other sign, but don't bother those who are very busy today, or you lose them as friends. Get more work done and secure the information that has long escaped you. Have fun tonight at theater, or whatever.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make sure you do not take any chances in the world of activity now, in the public forum and especially where following regulations is concerned. Support bigwigs instead of trying to criticize them.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who thinks he or she can do far more than is really possible. This could irritate others, even though the motives and intentions are sincere. Teach early to help others only when asked to do so, or their efforts could cause resentment and friends could be lost. Teach to cooperate more with others, since the nature here is entirely too independent. Give good academic training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

EXPULSED: (Q.) Last spring I was kicked out of school for skipping classes. I can go back in September, so I am not worried about that.

What I am worried about is my girl friend. She is threatening to leave me because I got kicked out. I don't want her to because I love her.

I'm not really a bad person. I play football, basketball and baseball. I go to church, and I do not smoke or play around with drugs. I also have a good summer job making about $70 a week.

She says she loves me too. Why does she want to leave me?—16 and heartbroken in Connecticut

(A.) One of the biggest tests of a person is responsibility. A responsible person does what is best for him, even though he does not always like to.

The best thing for a 16-year-old boy is to stay in school. You didn't. Your girl friend sees that in skipping classes and getting expelled from school you suffered a serious failure. You do not seem to see this.

Resolve to go back to school in September and to go to every class; not skipping a one. Tell your girl friend of your resolution and ask her to help you. I believe she will.

15 AND 14, NEARLY: (Q.) I really like this boy a lot. The only trouble is he's younger than I. In February I was 15. He will be 14 in November. Do you think it is wrong for me to like him? He is in a lower grade, but I think he acts mature and we seem to get along real well.

Some of my friends say our ages don't matter so long as I really like him. And then some of my friends say "Oh" when I tell them what grade he's in.—Older Girl in Texas.

(A.) It is not wrong for a girl to like a boy younger than she. The important thing is that the two get along well and enjoy being together. Many girls like and even marry boys younger than they. If you like this boy, ignore what rude or thoughtless people may say about the difference in your ages.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions and comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Don Loper, ex-dancer-actor-producer-director, is now one of Hollywood's leading fashion entrepreneurs. He has some 10 businesses, all dealing with fashions for men and women. And it's nice to hear that he's bullish about good taste.

"Good fashions are coming back," he says. "Fashion has always been like a pendulum. Now we're swinging back toward good taste."

He feels so strongly about the improvement that he's in the process of reactivating his own dress designing business, which he shelved for the duration of the freakish period.

"For awhile," he says, "I thought that mirrors had gone out of style—why else would people look the way they looked?"

He, himself, has always dressed elegantly—black suit, tiny rose in his lapel, white shirt, grey-striped tie—and never tried to keep up with the mod trend. As a dedicated lover of Hollywood he is proud that, in his view, it wasn't the movies that sent good taste tumbling.

"Hollywood no longer sets trends," he says. "All that stuff with the beads and the Indian fringes, that started on Sunset Strip, and not in Hollywood films."

He says that one good thing came out of "the so-called revolution in men's clothing." That was the willingness of the American male to accept change in their fashions. For years, they fought it. Now they've come to accept it. Initially many men went too far, but gradually good taste is coming back. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

About the TV Audience

Editor's Note: During Cynthia Lowry's vacation, the column is being written by invited guests, each of whom was asked to respond to specific questions about some special area of television. Here is the report of the vice president in charge of research marketing services for the ABC network, the man whose job it is to figure out who and how many viewers are watching the shows of his own and other networks and to sort out the millions by age, sex, income and geographic distribution.

Q. Using charts, surveys and polls, does a portrait of the average television viewer emerge?

A. The typical TV viewer is not likely to be a very exotic person, since 96 per cent of U.S. households own at least one television set (and approximately 40 per cent own more than one and about half have a color television set.) The average TV viewer therefore would undoubtedly be very similar to the average American—the average American WOMAN that is, because, women, being home to a greater extent than men, watch more TV—about 4½ hours a day compared with about 3½ hours a day for the average man.

This woman is probably 28 years old, a high school graduate, got married at the age of 21 to a white-collar worker, has one child and one car and gets along on a family income of $10,200 that she contributes to with part-time work.

Her home is probably located in the suburb of a large city somewhere between New York and Chicago.

Her favorite nighttime programs are "All in the Family" and "Marcus Welby, M.D." Of the new television shows this past season, the ones she likes most are "Columbo," "The Sonny and Cher Show" and "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law."

Does this sound like anyone you know? Probably. But even if it doesn't, television has something for everybody. Even if you happen to be a man, 53, with a Ph. D. degree, no wife, no children, no car and a house deep in the woods, your set can still offer you programs ranging from football to a performance of Hamlet to a discussion on youth gangs.

Television has its typical viewers but what keeps people of all walks of life interested is the wide variety of fare it offers and its ability to take them out of their homes electronically and into the world outside.

The typical woman we've described is no longer circumscribed in her thinking by what happens immediately around her but is truly a citizen of the world. So are millions of others.

Belfast News Vendor Killed

BELFAST (UPI) — Gunmen killed a Belfast news vendor Thursday when he tried to prevent them from planting a bomb in his shop. Then the assailants critically wounded his wife as she knelt screaming beside his body.

Gunfights broke out in several parts of Belfast early today, causing British soldiers and residents to take cover. A civilian was shot and killed.

The death of Leslie Leggett, a news dealer, and an unidentified civilian whose body was found by soldiers near the Roman Catholic Springfield Road area early today brought to 453 the total fatalities in three years of violence in Northern Ireland.

Police said two gunmen shot Leggett in the chest when he tried to keep them from setting a bomb in his shop. As he lay near death, his wife cradled him in her arms, screaming. They shot her, planted their bomb and fled. A passing motorist dragged the couple out of the place before the explosives went off.

Friends said Leggett was in the process of selling his newstand and moving to England after getting threats from Roman Catholic and Protestant extremists because of what they considered his moderate views.

Three persons were injured in a blast which demolished a Newry post office Thursday. It was touched off by a bomb planted in a baby carriage.

Arms Pact May Pass in August

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Administration officials think the two strategic arms limitation agreements signed at the Moscow summit could pass Congress by Aug. 18.

The agreements, which limit defensive (ABM) missiles to two sites and halt offensive missile deployment for five years, advanced Thursday with little opposition in Senate and House committees.

The ABM agreement, in the form of a treaty, is subject only to Senate ratification. The agreement limiting the number of intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) must pass both chambers.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee unanimously approved both agreements and will formally present them to the Senate today so that a date can be set for action.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee was receptive to the ICBM agreement in a hearing at which Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Ambassador Gerard Smith testified.

Smith was the chief U.S. negotiator for the strategic arms talks (SALT) at Helsinki and Vienna that produced the agreements signed by President Nixon and Chairman Leonid Brezhnev in May.

Rogers and Smith expressed "hope" that Congress would approve the agreements before the Aug. 18 recess for the Republican National Convention. The secretary and the ambassador said early passage was needed to give the U.S. negotiators time to prepare for the second phase of SALT that resumes in October.

Government Task Force Recaptures Province

SAIGON (UPI)—A 7,500-man government task force stormed into Bong Son district town in South Vietnam's most populous province and recaptured it today after 83 days of Communist occupation, the Saigon command said.

The retaking of the Binh Dinh Province town, 290 miles north of Saigon, was a major step in reopening Highway 1 in the coastal highlands, spokesmen said. The operation climaxed a three-day government drive to reopen the Bong Son Pass dominating the highway.

Nearly 100 U.S. B52 bombers dumped an estimated 2,500 tons of explosives in South Vietnam Thursday and today and nine others flew into North Vietnam, the U.S. command said. The jets struck 13 times within 11 miles of embattled Quang Tri City, 435 miles north of Saigon, unleashing more than 24 million pounds of bombs. Thursday, the bombers hit three sides of the city.

In 330 fighter-bomber strikes into North Vietnam, U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marine air crews hit seven bridges, 17 trucks, 17 supply boats and two major petroleum storage points, a command spokesman said.

The Saigon command said Communist gunners shot down three government helicopters airlifting a South Vietnamese battalion to the edge of Bong Son early in today's operation. But when the drive was completed, government troops reported no resistance and began searching houses for Communist stragglers, a command spokesman said.

UPI correspondent Edward Bassett said the Communists apparently knew they couldn't hold Bong Son because, according to refugees, they began telling villagers 10 days ago: "Goodbye. We'll see you again in two years."

In heavy fighting around Quang Tri City today, South Vietnamese paratroopers and marines reported killing 62 North Vietnamese in four skirmishes. Nine paratroopers died and 19 were wounded, the Saigon command said.

Bassett reported Thursday that U.S. warplanes spearheaded the drive to recapture Bong Son destroyed three irrigation dams to lower the water level of the Ai River and make it easier for South Vietnamese armor to enter the town.

Meanwhile, in Paris, Communist Vietnamese demands that the United States pull out of South Vietnam only after ousting the regime it has helped depend for years are the main hurdle so far in the resumed Vietnam peace talks, diplomatic sources said today.

There has been no move away from the Communist insistence that a peace settlement is possible only if President Nguyen van Thieu's government is overthrown beforehand, the sources said.

Two formal sessions and one secret meeting between the Americans and the North Vietnamese at an undisclosed place in Paris have failed to provide a hint as to whether the two sides were moving their 3½-year-old parley off dead center.

Thursday, four and a half hours of strenuous arguments and heated rebuttals by the American, South Vietnamese, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations failed to show any visible sign the private contacts were making headway. The four delegations to the Conference after Thursday's 151st session refused to disclose anything about the 6½-hour secret talks in Paris Wednesday between Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger and the two North Vietnamese negotiators, delegation chief Xuan Thuy and his special adviser Politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Tech Journal Claims 'Fire Storms Failed'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The technical journal Science said today that the United States tried at least three times in 1965, 1966 and 1967 to ignite what Defense Department planners called "fire storms" in some of South Vietnam's most valuable timber country.

"All three attempts, however, fizzled out," the magazine said. So the effort was abandoned as impractical in the wet woods of South Vietnam, Science said. Fire storms, far more destructive than ordinary fires, have occurred accidentally in dry timberlands of the American West and in Australia and southern France. They also occurred as a result of World War II bombings in Dresden and Hamburg, Germany, and Tokyo and Hiroshima, Japan.

A fire storm happens when an area of intense burning sucks in oxygen from adjacent regions at such a rate that ground winds of more than 100 miles an hour may be generated.

Science, published weekly by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said two military reasons were given for the South Vietnam project.

—A fire storm would burn out previously defoliated treetops and make reconnaissance from the air more effective.

—A big fire would destroy ground cover and make concealment and camouflage by the enemy from U.S. bombing strikes or ground attack impossible.

The fire storm operation was carried out by the Defense Department's Advanced Research Projects Agency (ARPA), Science said. ARPA, according to the magazine, called in Agriculture Department experts "to advise on how to effectively burn the forests."

Egypt, USSR Start Series

By United Press International The semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said today the Soviet leadership has begun a series of meetings to discuss Egypt's expulsion of 15,000 Russian military advisors.

The statement followed a report from political sources in Cairo that the Soviet Union and the United States agreed in May to limit weapons shipments to Israel and Arab nations.

The newspaper said the discussions involved all of the Soviet Union's main figures, including Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev, President Nikolai V. Podgorny, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and a group of Communist party central committee experts.

The Soviets are striving to "reach a balanced assessment of the situation," Al-Ahram said. The Soviet line emerging from the discussions appeared to reaffirm Moscow's support for the Arabs against Israel and to avoid complicating further the situation brought about the ouster of the technicians, the newspaper said.

Political sources in Cairo said that President Nixon and Kremlin leaders in their summit talks in May agreed to an informal arrangement to honor existing weapons contracts with Middle East countries but refrained from undertaking new commitments.

Egypt actually has received no weapons since the Moscow summit but the supply of spare parts has never been interrupted, the sources said.

Open Door Trade Attempts Being Made

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet and American trade negotiators today attempted to open a door long virtually closed to American businessmen and convert the trickle of goods exchanges into a flood.

U.S. Secretary of Commerce Peter G. Peterson, who arrived Thursday at the head of a 24-member delegation, and Nikolai S. Patolichev, Soviet minister for foreign trade, led the talks. They said they hoped to negotiate away the barriers now helping hold down trade exchanges to $208 million in 1971, a small amount compared with America's total foreign trade exchanges of around $40 billion.

The two men were acting on instructions of President Nixon and Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist party. At their summit talks in Moscow in May the two leaders defined growth in mutual trade as one of their "basic principles of relations." As the talks opened, only two American firms—Pan American Airways and American Express—had permanent representatives in Moscow, although a third—Pulmann of Chicago—was promised this week it can open an office perhaps later this year.

Peterson told journalists that in order to facilitate trade, the joint commission must work out a series of barrier-lowering agreements. These include settlement of Russia's World War II Lend-Lease debt, the question of most favored nation treatment, business and trade facilities, a commercial arbitration agreement, copyright, licensing and related tax matters, credit arrangements and a maritime agreement, as well as a general trade accord.

"We do not see the U.S. government negotiating specific transactions for individual companies," Peterson said. "But we will be setting up policies and procedures permitting companies to make specific deals in Russia."

American companies now operating in the Soviet Union find themselves stymied by even such simple matters as arranging rapid communications with their home offices. Peterson said he hopes to ease the problems in an agreement on mutual provision of business facilities.

Luzon Flood Victims Rescued By Copters

MANILA (UPI)—U.S. Air Force helicopters today plucked flood victims from treetops in Central Luzon where 50,000 marooned people awaited rescue. Four days of relentless monsoon rains continued, dumping a record 18.6 inches on Manila overnight.

Eight more people were reported drowned today, raising the death toll in typhoon-spawned floods and downpours in the Philippines over the past two weeks to 235. Red Cross officials said more than half a million residents of Central Luzon, including Manila, were homeless, isolated or stranded.

The Philippines News Service (PNS) said helicopters operating from Clark Air Force Base 50 miles north of Manila went after an estimated 180 people in 30 families clinging to treetops in a badly flooded village near Arayat Town, 15 miles east of the air base. A rescue force spokesman said the people were among 50,000 marooned flood victims awaiting evacuation.

Authorities also sent out appeals to the Air Force for an immediate airlift of food to Tarlac Province, 80 miles north of Manila, where 115,000 people were isolated and feared starving, the Red Cross said.

The U.S. Navy, responding to an urgent call for assistance, pulled the helicopter carrier Tripoli and three support ships from Okinawa to Luzon for rescue work. The task force was expected Saturday.

The weather bureau forecast continued heavy rains and thunderstorms for at least another 24 hours.

More than three feet of rain has hit the Philippine capital in the past five days, rendering it a virtual ghost town.
